

February 12, 2019

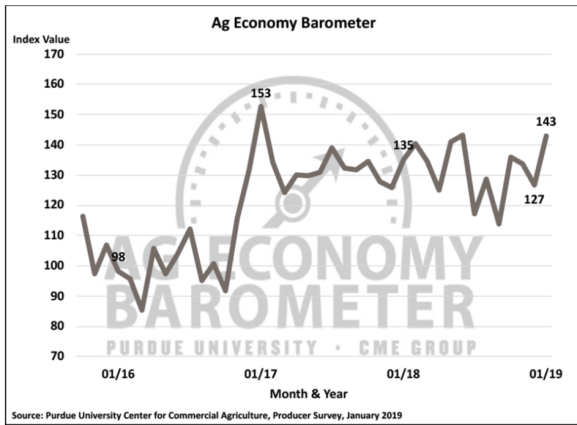

Grain futures closed higher today with soybean futures providing leadership. Several friendly factors supported prices today. There was a 122.3k metric ton corn export sales to unknown destination announced this morning. President Trump said today that he might consider postponing the March 1 tariff increase if China and the US make positive gains in trade talks. The US trade team is in China this week for negotiations. Technical chart support also helped elevate prices today.
