Good Morning,

Corn and beans both in the red as we trade today. Believe we are seeing some pre-report positioning ahead quarterly stocks and planting intentions tomorrow @ 11. Grain market analysts predicting corn acres will back off last year's decades high in favor of bean acres. They are predicting a 3% drop in corn acres and 3.5% rise in bean acres compared to last year. Lack of bullish headlines tied to South American weather or export demand has the market backing off.
