

What's your plan for 2019?

Don't miss the Revenue Driven Marketing meeting to gain critical insight and learn the best strategies to position your operation for success.

Plan to be enlightened by Jared Creed who has led the producer grain marketing programs and risk management services of two multinational grain companies. Jared's unique experiences allow his independent consulting business to work with progressive business operations throughout the US. This first hand insight will challenge your thoughts and help in establishing a plan of attack for your farm operation.

Jarod Creed is the owner of JC Marketing Services, LLC based in Waterloo, IA working with producers and firms across the Midwest. Creed specializes in education and development of executing margin-based marketing plans for producers that brings together all inputs and outputs.
