

2018 Summer Internship Program

Legacy Farmers Cooperative is a locally owned farmers' cooperative located in Findlay, Ohio and the surrounding counties of Hancock, Henry, Putnam, Seneca and Wood. Legacy Farmers Cooperative services customers through Agronomy (five locations), Grain (11 facilities), Lawn and Pet (feed, farm, turf, and garden), Petroleum (two petroleum cardtrol locations, liquid fuel and lubricant delivery), and Turf and Ornamental. Legacy Farmers has hosted 20 interns over the past four years from OSU, ATI, Wilmington, Terra State, and BGSU and strives to continue to improve the experience and attract talented applicants.

Legacy Farmers' internship program offers a well-rounded, hands-on experience allowing young professionals to explore career options, increase agricultural knowledge, and develop relationships with industry professionals. This internship has the ability to offer a large variety of tasks within our agronomy and grain divisions including, but not limited to field scouting, planting plots, grain grading, soil sampling, assisting with recommendations, introduction to grain marketing, establishing customer relationships, and hands-on operational tasks as well as an individual project. At the end of the summer, interns are given the opportunity to present their projects, tasks and overall experience to our management team and fellow interns. Each internship experience will vary based on the company's personnel needs to provide outstanding service to our customers and the intern's strengths and interests.

Please submit your resume and a short introduction about yourself and what type of internship experience you are in search of. Candidates must demonstrate willingness to work hard, take initiative, and learn, along with strong communication skills in order to provide excellent service to our customers. Previous part-time employment and/or on-campus involvement is preferred along with general grain and agronomy knowledge. Applicants must be willing to work overtime and weekends, as needed.
