JESSICA SCHROTER

BSW, MSW, RSW

Social Worker, Toronto Rehab Hospital

Jessica Schroter, BSW, MSW, RSW, has been a social worker at Toronto Rehab for the past 6 years. As part of the interprofessional team on the inpatient acquired brain injury unit, she has helped patients and families navigate the life-changing realities of brain injury, assisting with their rehab admission and transition back to the community. She co-facilitates a monthly drop-in for family and friends in the brain injury programs, which provides community resource information and addresses the unique challenges caregivers face in the recovery process. As part of a professional development committee for social work, she has supported several initiatives to incorporate the use of self-assessment measures in clinical practice.
