

(Doesn't take a) Rocket Man
(Brent Newcomb)

It doesn't take a lot to know,
 A loud mouth mime will tell you so,
No Wolfman Jack to make you hear,
 That fireworks burst when you are near.

No computer whiz or scientist,
 To see the glow when we kiss.
Doesn't take an engineer,
 To draw blueprints for love so real.

(chorus) (words in parentheses are optional, can be echo, or creatively incorporated)

When we're together hand-in-hand, (When we're together hand-in-hand)
 Doesn't take a rocket man. (Doesn't take no retina scan)
To see our love is disco grand. (Why can't people understand?)
 As I said again, again,
 Doesn't take no rocket man.

No brain shrink to analyze,
 Or chemist to synthesize.
Don't need Lone Ranger, no Sherlock Holmes,
 No Nancy Drew or Columbo.

The President, he gets the gist,
 Our love so bright it can't be missed.
No Isaac Newton or Einstein,
 To say I'm yours and you are mine.

(chorus)

No Evil Knievel to jump a bus
 No Apollo 11 and no moon dust
No Elvis Presley to pack the place
 No skywriting from a flying ace

A frogman from the ocean floor
 Wonder Woman, the Fantastic Four
Darth Vader and Mr. Spock
 The Ayatollah and his pet rock

(chorus repeat to fade)
