2019 HERALD-MAIL PREVIEW

Over the past four seasons, improvement has been the name of the game for North Hagerstown's football program.

After a winless 2014 season, coach Greg Stains has guided the Hubs to progressively better records in each of the past four seasons.

Despite some late-season injuries to key players last season, Stains guided the Hubs to a 5-5 record as North broke its string of four straight losing seasons.

Now in his sixth year at the helm, Stains and the Hubs are looking to take the next step.

Behind the experience of some key returnees on offense and defense, North will look to once again improve as it goes for its first winning season since 2013, and a potential playoff berth to go with it.

"Our goal is to improve upon our 5-5, and each year I've been here, we've gotten one or two wins better," Stains said. "We do have a good group of core kids returning to build around. It's hard to predict how things will turn out this year."

Helping to dictate the success of the Hubs on offense will be senior quarterback Jaynaz Melendez and junior running back A.J. Cook.

In his first full season as starter, Melendez flashed his potential with 1,182 yards and 13 touchdowns through the air, while limiting his interceptions to three. Cook had a breakout sophomore campaign, rushing for 801 yards and 10 touchdowns to earn all-county second-team honors.

"(Melendez) is a work in progress when you look at his stats," Stains said. "He's only really started 14 high school games, so he still has a lot to learn. ... The expectation is that (Cook) will do well."

Senior Ira Roberts and junior Dajor Walden will join Cook in the backfield, which will operate behind an experienced offensive line that returns multiple starters from last year's team.

Leading the offensive line will be three-year starter Will Klein, a 300-pounder who Stains considers to be a silent leader for the rest of the linemen.

"He's a 'Super 22' selection in Maryland," Stains said of Klein. "He did a lot of camps this summer to get his name out there. He's Mr. Consistent for us."

The receiving corps will look a lot different this year for North after its top five targets all graduated.

Seniors Hunter Keller and Kaelib McElroy both return after seeing time as receivers last year. Junior Devon Napier — a member of North's state championship gold medal-winning 4x200 relay team — will add speed on the outside, along with Jayvon Burnett, who also has great size at 6-foot-4.

The big changes from last year for North will be on the defensive side, where the Hubs lost eight starters.

Junior linebacker Keith Johnson is the leading returning tackle after finishing fourth on the team with 65 tackles in 2018.

"We haven't changed anything defensively, but it's still a matter of replacing eight starters and it makes it difficult for us," Stains said. "I think we have more team speed on defense, but until you get them in competition, it's hard to measure that."

Cook and Roberts will both see a lot of action with Johnson as linebackers, along with Dylan Pepple.

Jasen Foster will serve as a safety in the Hubs secondary. McElroy and Keller both saw action back there last year.

"Jasen was with us all summer and he seems to have accepted his role," Stains said. "We're just looking for players to step up this year."

North's schedule will have a different look to it this season.

The biggest difference will come in Week 1, as the Hubs play host to cross-town rival South Hagerstown on Saturday. A third straight meeting against Spring Mills will serve as the season finale.

"I think we're going to give a different look this year, and there's no way to prepare for that," Stains said of facing South in the opener. "So you kind of go back to what historically we've each done and go from there. But you still just have to line 'em up and play. We'll go with that mentality that it doesn't matter what they do, we're going to what we can to stop it and what we can do to put points on the board."

North will take on Atholton and Washington (W. Va.) for the first time, while adding a third West Virginia team in Hedgesville for the first time since 2004.

"We tried to create some community games so we don't have to travel down to Carroll County and what not," Stains said of adding the pair of Eastern Panhandle teams. "The transition from school to the away games and the travel, it's very difficult for the

Trending Upward

Coach Stains teams have improved each season he has been coach. After the interim 2014 season, Stains was officially named head coach in 2015. Coach Stains knew he would have a difficult task of rebuilding the program after a winless 2014 campaign. It has taken time, but the results are starting to show in the win column - going from one victory in 2015 to five in 2018.

The Hubs hope to continue their upward trend in 2019. Coach Stains team goals for this year - beat all city/county rivals, a winning season and a trip to the post season. As history has shown - those goals are well within reach this season!

Our Boys of Fall

When I feel that chill, smell that fresh cut grass
 I'm back in my helmet, cleats, and shoulder pads
 Standing in the huddle, listening to the call
 Fans going crazy for the boys of fall
 They didn't let just anybody in that club
 Took every ounce of heart and sweat and blood
 To get to wear those game-day jerseys down the hall
 The kings of the school, man, we're the boys of fall
 Well it's turn to face the stars and stripes
 It's fighting back them butterflies
 It's call it in the air, alright
 Yes sir, we want the ball
 And it's knocking heads and talking trash
 It's slinging mud and dirt and grass
 It's I got your number, I got your back
 When your back's against the wall
 You mess with one man, you got us all
 The Boys of Fall
 In little towns like mine, that's all they've got
 Newspaper clippings fill the coffee shops
 The old men will always think they know it all
 Young girls will dream about the boys of fall
 Well it's turn and face the stars and stripes
 It's fighting back them butterflies
 It's call it in the air, alright
 Yes sir, we want the ball
 And it's knocking heads and talking trash
 It's slinging mud and dirt and grass
 It's I got your number, I got your back
 When your back's against the wall
 You mess with one man, you got us all
 The boys of fall
 Well it's turn and face the stars and stripes
 It's fighting back them butterflies
 It's call it in the air, alright
 Yes sir, we want the ball
 And it's knocking heads and talking trash
 It's slinging mud and dirt and grass

Former Hub player Dean Staley gives the gift of Life

WILLIAMSPORT — If Christmas is the season of love and giving, the Byers family is enjoying an early and extended celebration this year.

On Oct. 12, Michael Byers, 56, of Williamsport, received a living liver donation from his son-in-law Dean Staley, 31, of Williamsport. Dean is married to Michael's daughter, Kaylin Staley, 28, who is due to give birth to their second child on Dec. 25. "I just was very grateful that he would step up to take on a task like that because, believe me, it's a shock to the body," Michael said. "I feel that he was placed in our lives for a reason. And I just feel it's a God thing." His wife, Kelli Byers, agreed.

"This Thanksgiving and Christmas, we are celebrating the gift of life," she said. "It's the best Christmas present ever."

Michael and Kelli Byers, who have owned and operated Byers Market on North Burhans Boulevard in Hagerstown since 1987, learned that Michael had a rare chronic liver disease called primary sclerosing cholangitis (PSC) in 2014. According to the American Liver Foundation's website, PSC involves inflammation of the bile ducts, which is believed to be caused by an autoimmunity. Michael first discovered he had issues with his liver when he applied for life insurance and had routine blood work done.

"His liver enzymes were extremely high," Kelli said. "The underwriter got back to the insurance agent asking if he drank because his liver was sclerosing. We were like, 'No!'" Shortly after the blood work, Michael started having physical symptoms. "It was a timing thing," she said. "He was starting to feel not quite himself, having times of feeling tired. And then it got progressively worse and worse," she said. When his local doctor struggled to provide relief, Michael went to see Dr. Paul Thulavath, a gastroenterologist and liver specialist at Mercy Medical Center in Baltimore. He participated in a medical trial, which proved helpful for a time, but because of side effects including severe itching, doctors removed him from the study. Itching also is a symptom of PSC, Kelli said. "It was so bad he literally dug himself open because of the itching," she said. "The bile lays in the bile ducts and becomes toxic. It can't drain as the disease gets progressively worse." Michael often was unable to sleep. He would spike fevers and experience achiness. Visits to the hospital emergency department became roughly a monthly occurrence. "It was like kind of flu-like symptoms," Kelli said. "Then he had really bad pain in his abdomen. He was getting cholangitis. It kept happening more and more frequently until we were at the hospital like every two or three weeks. He couldn't function."

In addition to PSC, Michael also had been diagnosed with Crohn's disease. He underwent a colonoscopy every six months "which was awful," Kelli said.

"Having a colonoscopy every 10 years is bad enough. Every six months was hard," she said. As Michael's condition deteriorated, Thulavath spoke with him about getting his name on the liver transplant list in hopes of finding a donor. It was during December 2017, and Michael's Model for End-Stage Liver Disease score — or MELD — score, was "not very high," Kelli said. "He was pretty much at the lower part of the list. Most people don't get a transplant until they are like, on their death bed," she said.

That's when the family learned about living liver donation. Doctors at Mercy Medical Center referred Michael to University of Maryland Medical Center to pursue a transplant. It was there that the family first heard of living liver transplants. "We never knew there was such a thing. We started researching and researching, reading things on the internet," Kelli said. "With Mike getting progressively worse, we wanted to do something to intervene and to find him a liver sooner rather than later."

Michael and Kelli's son-in-law Dean volunteered to be tested, Kelli said. "But I wanted to try first since I was older." She went through the blood work and paperwork, but was ruled out because she'd had her gall bladder removed. Dean began the testing process on July 18. The family found out the last week in August that he was a match.

With Kaylin pregnant, the family recognized that Dean serving as a living donor would be an especially stressful undertaking.

"We have a 2-year-old, and placing that risk on our family was of course something we had to discuss in a very serious way," Dean said. "For me, family has always been the most important thing. I was not willing to stand on the sideline. I had an opportunity to do what I could to keep Mike in my kids' lives as long as we could. We decided I should do it and we made the decision to move forward." Dean and Kaylin sold their home, and along with their daughter Ella, 2, moved in with Michael and Kelli in September.

"We all said if we are going to do it, we are going to do it now because we have a baby coming," Kelli said. Kaylin, who has always been close with her dad, said Dean and her parents hit it off as soon as they met around four years ago. "They are just like, over the moon about him since they met him, from day one. They love him probably more than me," she said laughingly. "It's so crazy how it all worked out and that he was a match and everything. Dean, who works at Volvo Powertrain in Hagerstown, attended appointments with Michael and conducted research, reading a number of blogs written by people who had been through the living donor process. He learned what to expect, how bad it would hurt, how long he would be in the hospital, how fast the recovery would be and more, he said. The day of surgery, Dean said, he and Mike "had a calm confidence about us." "Sometimes in life, I feel that things happen for a reason. People cross paths for a reason," Dean said. "For me, this felt like the right thing to do, like it was what I was supposed to be doing for him." Michael and Dean went in for surgery. Dean's part of the procedure was successful. Doctors removed 65 percent of his liver and gave it to Michael. Kelli said it was about 10 hours that Michael was in surgery and recovery before she could see him, and that doing so following the transplant was difficult. "He had tons of tubes and monitors. I pretty much lost it. It didn't look like him. His eyes were swollen from steroids. He was on the ventilator, tubes in and out everywhere," she said. Surgery went well though, as did inpatient recovery, despite the complication of a bacterial infection that caused some ups and downs. Not one to sit still, Dean asked to get up and go see Michael the day after surgery. He strolled down the hall with a tube in his nose, a catheter in his neck, monitor stickers on his chest, wires strung about him and an IV pole rolling beside him. Michael recalls the visit.

"The medicines had me messed up, but yeah, I remember he came to see me," he said. Dean went home on Oct. 17. Michael continued to tough out his healing. While finding a living donor had fallen into place, he had another challenge to contend with. "I am a big sissy when it comes to doctors and needles and all," he said laughing. "Just recently, in the last year, I just started sitting up to get lab work done. I used to lay down." With medical care, his faith and the support of family, he said, he found the wherewithal to persevere. On Oct. 31, with his condition stabilized, his meds managed, and the infection under control, Michael returned home. The week that he returned home, Dean received devastating news. At just 39 years old, his older brother suddenly passed away of a heart attack. The shock added extreme stress to Dean's recovery process. "It's been quite a challenge. We were so happy the transplant went well. Then this happened. And now we'll have another high point with another baby coming up here soon," he said. Aside from the trauma of losing his brother, the hardest part of the donor process for Dean was simply resting. "I'm naturally very active, on-the-go constantly," he said. "I don't like to sleep at night because I feel like it's a waste of time, kind of thing. So focusing on my healing and recovery was hard." Once Michael was home, Dean was up and around, with physical restrictions including lifting. Dean returned to work after about eight weeks. Both men needed to eat plenty of protein as well as fruits and vegetables, and both had medication injected daily to prevent blood clots. Kelli managed Michael's care, checking vitals and drains, administering meds, and keeping him comfortable. "It was tough, but his spirits were good," she said. "We all had our moments, but we just all did the best we could with every situation. We relied on our faith and God brought us through." Follow-up appointments for Michael initially were once or twice a week in Baltimore, then they were reduced to every other week. He gets blood work weekly and takes about 18 pills each day, including anti-rejection meds, which he expects he will need for the rest of his life. The liver being the only organ that will regenerate, at about eight weeks following surgery, both Michael and Dean likely have nearly full-size livers again. "Every person is different," Dean said. "Some have it back in six weeks, for some it's 12 or maybe a little longer. It's quite amazing."

Kaylin said it was "really crazy, definitely a lot having somebody on both sides of surgery." "I was terrified. It was my dad and my husband. It was really stressful going through it, but I'm glad we did. My dad is doing so well now. I think it was definitely worth it." It feels strange, she said, thinking about the transplant. "It's so odd that there is a piece of my husband inside of my dad now," she said, "and it saved his life." His thanks extends to Dean and beyond. "I really appreciate my daughter letting her husband do this, and I appreciate (Dean's) parents. I imagine they were pretty apprehensive," Michael said. His son Dustin Byers has been supportive, and his son Jeremy Byers is managing the family store in Michael's absence. In recent days, Michael has stopped in to the market from time to time. "The customers, since I've been popping in and out, they are happy to see me. They say my color looks better. I think people really appreciate us being there," he said. Michael notes that Kelli "ran up and down to Baltimore, oh my gosh, I don't know how many times. She takes care of me, makes sure I get my medicines. We have quite a family," he said. At about 10 weeks out, he is looking forward to getting back to work. "I'm moving back toward that. Now I'm running errands and stuff like that, but it still wears you out," he said. Meanwhile, he focuses on his recovery and remains grateful to Dean that he has a functioning liver. "I mean, it was a gift he gave me," Michael said, "and I am the type of person that, you know, we need to take advantage of every day that we have."

State Records

ISAIAH KEYES

During the 2013 season the Hubs senior scored five defensive touchdowns to break the Maryland State record. Keyes five defensive TDs also ranks fifth all-time in a single-season in America in the NFHS record book.

BRENT TOMS

Toms booted 10 extra points during the Hubs 76-12 victory over Clear Spring in October of 2004---tying the Maryland State Record for PATs in a single game by a kicker. Toms holds numerous kicking records in the Hubs Football Record Book.

Hubs Tailgate - September 7, 2019

Where did the Hubs nickname come from?

The city of Hagerstown was given the nickname as the Hub City due to being a major railroad hub dating back to the late 1800's. The Hubs moniker started being used by local newspapers to identify the Hagerstown High sports teams. The official nickname name used by Hagerstown High was the Maroon & Gray, but it became common to call all teams the Hubs.

Hagerstown HS formally adopted Hubs as the school nickname in the early 1940's but the school colors remained maroon & gray. In 1957 the new North Hagerstown HS opened. The school decided to keep the Hubs nickname but change the school colors to Red & White.

We are not the only Hubs in America

The Rochelle Township Hubs from Rochelle, Illinois shares our Hubs nickname. Rochelle has a population of approximately 9600 and is located about 80 miles west of Chicago. The school colors are purple & white and play in the Interstate Eight Athletic Conference.
