ANKARA, Turkey — A Turkish policeman fatally shot Russia’s ambassador to Turkey on Monday in what is being described as an assassination attempt, and then turned the gun on himself.

The Turkish police said the gunman, Mevlut Mert Altintas, had gone berserk after a knife-wielding attacker was shot dead near the Russian Ambassador’s residence.

The police said one other person was injured in the attack and that the gunman, who had been a member of the Ankara police, had been taken to a hospital. The police also said that they had blocked off the street and that there were no reports of any other injuries.

The incident took place at the Russian embassy in Ankara, the capital, and followed an incident in which the Russian ambassador, Andrei Karlov, had been shot and killed in Ankara last week.
