

Season of Discerning

Do not be conformed to this world, but be transformed by the renewing of your minds, so that you may discern what is the will of God — what is good and acceptable and perfect. – Romans 12:2 (NRSV)

The discernment process begins when a prospective planter (or potential partner congregation) senses God's calling to plant a new church. Such a divine calling is greater than simply a desire to start a new community of faith. This calling gets affirmed by others who assess and affirm the necessary gifts for this ministry. Ongoing discernment could occur in regional training events, personal or corporate study, prayer, and conversations with experienced church planters or partnering congregations.

Are you called to be a church planter?
 Are you called to be a partner church?
 Is there confirmation from God? From others?

Season of Visioning

Then the Lord answered me and said, write the vision; make it plain on tablets, so that a runner may read it. For there is still a vision for the appointed time; it speaks of the end, and does not lie. If it seems to tarry, wait for it; it will surely come, it will not delay. – Habakkuk 2:2-3 (NRSV)

The soil in which God sows the seed of a new church is in the planter or planting church's heart. Vision offers a shared picture of a preferred future, inspired by God and often first articulated by leaders and then affirmed by God's people. A vision for starting a new church may arise from a need to reach a geographical area, cultural group or specific community of people. Energized by this vision, leaders motivate others to develop strategic plans and begin to enlist teams of persons to help that vision become reality. Visioning happens early in the planting process, often during the season of discerning or just beyond.

What is God's dream for you?
 For the people of your church? For your community?
 How will you begin to share that vision with others?

Season of Gathering

After this the Lord appointed seventy others and sent them on ahead of him in pairs to every town and place where he himself intended to go. He said to them, "The harvest is plentiful, but the laborers are few; therefore ask the Lord of the harvest to send out laborers into his harvest." – Luke 10:1-2 (NRSV)

Attracting and engaging a large number of people to help plant and nurture a new church (including members from a partnering church, friends, family and inquirers in the community) requires a great deal of invitation, networking and relationship-building. Church planting is never solo work. The planting team's first and most important task is to connect people to Christ, to the planter, to the vision, to each other, and to opportunities to make disciples of Jesus Christ for the transformation of the world. Gatherings of small groups, fellowship events, and preview worship services can ensure a critical mass of people necessary to plant and firmly establish the new church.

How do we attract and engage a critical mass of people?
 What are we doing to connect people to the planting team,
 vision, Christ, and the mission of the church?

Season of Discipling

And Jesus came and said to them, “All authority in heaven and on earth has been given to me. Go therefore and make disciples of all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit, and teaching them to obey everything that I have commanded you. And remember, I am with you always, to the end of the age.” – Matthew 28:18-20 (NRSV)

This season requires the planter to focus on leading, teaching, guiding, and growing the planting team both in size and spiritual depth. No new church needs to be encumbered with heavy systems and structures. However, SIMPLE organization needs to be in place to enable others to multiply themselves and mentor others in the faith. A Wesleyan model of church planting intentionally incorporates small groups for mentoring and multiplication. Spiritual growth and leadership development are the building blocks of a healthy faith community.

What process do we have to help people discover and release their God-given gifts for ministry?
How do we encourage people to grow and multiply themselves and their small groups?

Season of Worshiping

But the hour is coming, and is now here, when the true worshipers will worship the Father in spirit and truth, for the Father seeks such as these to worship him. God is spirit and those who worship him must worship in spirit and truth. – John 4:23-25 (NRSV)

We were created to be in relationship with God and one another. As human beings we have worship embedded in our very nature. One of God’s great commandments to Israel set the tone for how we express that deep-seated love and worship of God: “You shall love the LORD your God with all your heart, and with all your soul, and with all your might” (Deuteronomy 6:5, NRSV). How we begin a church’s public expression of worship requires careful planning and timing (not too soon and not too late). Worship styles vary greatly among cultural contexts, areas of the country, and age groups. Let the mission field guide your decision-making. Seek to meet their needs and interests. Experiment to see what will work in your setting. Worship is central to the church’s launch, and to life itself!

What does worship mean to us? When and how do we start worshipping together as a new church?
When does it become a public weekly experience?

Season of Maturing

He handed out gifts of apostle, prophet, evangelist, and pastor-teacher to train Christ’s followers in skilled servant work, working within Christ’s body, the church, until we’re all moving rhythmically and easily with each other, efficient and graceful in response to God’s Son, fully mature adults, fully developed within and without, fully alive like Christ. – Ephesians 4:11-13 (The Message)

As a congregation continues to develop and grow it becomes viable, sustainable and poised for multiplication. Growing people and developing healthy systems (leadership development, financial, structure, and discipleship) will help the church grow spiritually, multiply its mission and ministries and prepare itself for inevitable leadership transitions. Building a fruitful and multiplying church requires recognizing and honoring each person’s God-given gifts, especially those that complement the planter’s gifts. Recognizing your dependence on God, maintaining a consistent corporate life of spiritual discipline, and faithfully exercising the gifts of the Holy Spirit mean you will take big risks for Christ and experience personal and corporate growth and maturity.

What needs to happen next to grow people as servants and systems for sustainability?

Season of Multiplying

He who supplies seed to the sower and bread for food will supply and multiply your seed for sowing and increase the harvest of your righteousness. – 2 Corinthians 9:10-11 (NRSV)

Healthy organisms reproduce and multiply and so do healthy churches! Healthy churches multiply disciples, leaders, ministries and congregations. Reproduction begins from day one and manifests itself throughout the various aspects and stages of church life. With multiplication in the DNA of a new church, reproduction happens more naturally. The gospel of Christ mandates churches to be healthy, grow in ministry and mission, reach new people for Christ, and reproduce. Through multiplication we build new bridges to the culture around us, introduce more people to Christ, and continue in ministry in fresh and vital ways.

How do we reproduce to build God's reign in vision-replicating, resource-honoring ways?
 What can we do to ensure that multiplication remains in our church's DNA?
