The all-American fashion designer has chopped off $5 million from the original \$80 million asking price of his Plaza Hotel penthouse duplex, according to the New York Post. Hilfiger and his wife Dee Ocleppo have re-listed the unit, located on the 18th and 19th floors of the building, for $75 million.

Top broker Dolly Lenz is marketing the unit, which she first listed in October 2013.

Hilfiger bought the units for $25 million in 2008 and combined them into one sprawling apartment. Previously, the designer listed the apartment for $50 million before taking it off the market.

The 6,000-square-foot four-bedroom unit includes an original Eloise mural by Hilary Knight and a terrace, the newspaper reported. [\[NYP\]](#) — Claire Moses
