

Inventing the Internet

Q11.1 What was the Acceptable Use Policy of 1990?

This policy stipulated that commercial enterprises could use the network, but for research purposes only, not to promote marketing and sales. This is rather surprising, because most what we use the Internet for today are non-research-related activities like social media and eCommerce.