Lecture
“Health and Human Rights: Lessons from Haiti and Rwanda”
Paul Farmer, MD, PhD
Kolokotrones University Professor at Harvard University and the Chair of the Department of Global Health and Social Medicine at Harvard Medical School; Co-Founder, Partners in Health

Paul Farmer is a physician and anthropologist who works and writes on health, human rights, and the consequences of social inequality. Tonight he will reflect on his experience working in Haiti, the only republic to arise from a successful slave revolt, and in Rwanda, now twenty years past the genocide.

Q&A Session

All are invited to join us for a reception in the Rockefeller Lounge and Courtyard of International House. This lecture and reception are sponsored by The Robert H. Kirschner, MD, Memorial Fund.

This program is being cablecast live on CAN TV channel 27 and is streaming live at cantv.org/watch.
The video will also be available on the Human Rights Program website in late June.
