Today’s Expectations

Cappers in Training

1. Learn techniques for qualifying homes you find online.
2. Develop your showing skills.
3. Practice powerful scripts that will help your buyers in the decision-making process.

Ignite Faculty

To maximize your learning, your Ignite faculty is committed to:

1. Show great role model videos in class, if applicable.
2. Devote the majority of time on activities in class.
3. Role model what it takes to be highly successful. Guide and support the Cappers in Training by holding them accountable to their Daily 10/4 and Mission, and during the phone call activity make calls along with the class.
Action Reveal

There are three parts to the Action Reveal.

1. Review Mission assignments and get questions answered.
   a. Answer questions about any videos watched.
   b. Provide your aha’s from the Mission.

2. Announce your Daily 10/4 activity results from the day before class and review leaderboard standings. Celebrate successes!

3. Make Real-Play calls in class.
Report Out - Daily 10/4

Note: For help using myTracker, refer to instructions on the back of your Mission page.

Report on Your Daily 10/4 Activities

The Daily 10/4 is your most important business activity!

Keep track of yourself and your fellow Cappers in Training and cheer their successes!

Your Turn - Lead Generate for Business

Daily 10/4 Real-Play

Say an affirming message out loud. “My business is growing as my database grows!”

1. Get your phone and your list of contacts you prepared for this calling session. This week you’ll be calling people from personal and professional service industries and any referral names you’ve received by now.

2. Use scripts included here.
   - Goal #1: Call for 20 minutes and make contact with as many people as possible.
   - Goal #2: Always ask for referrals from each contact and offer your app.
   - Goal #3: Secure an appointment.

3. Record your results below and share them at the end of the call time.

CREATING REFERRAL PARTNERSHIPS WITH BUSINESS OWNERS YOU HAVE DONE BUSINESS WITH

Hi __________ (business owner), I’m __________ with Keller Williams Realty. I’m in the process of creating a list of preferred business and service providers to give to my clients. Since I frequently have clients ask me for a good _______________ (dentist, landscaper, or other business), I only want trusted companies to refer them to. Since I have had excellent service from you, would you and your business be interested in being included?

(If yes, continue . . .)

Great! I like to establish these professional referral partnerships to help grow each other’s businesses as well. So if I were to refer clients to you, would you be willing to refer your clients that are looking to buy or sell a home to me with the assurance that I will provide them with the high level of customer service that you expect?

(If yes, continue . . .)

Excellent! How about we confirm each other’s contact information so that we can get started?

Get Your Head in the Game

The Journey

The journey from buyer consultation to offer is the most exciting and rewarding part of working with buyers. Finding the right home as quickly as possible is a win for the buyer, and a win for you because you can work with as many buyers as possible.

Here are some statistics that will help with the home search process:

- 85 percent of Canadian home buyers begin their home buying search online.
- Nearly half of today's home buyers (46 percent) are comprised of Generation X with Generation Y (millennials) following closely at 38 percent.
- 86 percent of buyers considering virtualization of model homes as an important tool and 89 percent using online customer reviews to make their home buying decision.
- 68 percent of consumers consider walk-in closets as a non-negotiable feature in their next home, with an equal number of buyers highlighting energy-efficient appliances as their most important "must-have".
- Health and wellness concerns top the list of community preferences as well, with walking trails, bike paths, parks and recreation being cited as the most sought after amenities.
- While 35 percent of respondents would prefer a single-family detached 2-storey home for their next house, surprisingly the largest item buyers are willing to compromise on to reduce the cost of their next home is the size (22 percent); none of the respondents would compromise on quality or energy efficiency.

Make It Happen – Working with Buyers

In order to have a successful home search process, focus on these three steps:

1. Find the Right Homes
2. Show Qualified Homes
3. Bring Your Buyers to a Decision

1. Find Homes

There is no doubt your buyers will be searching the Internet on their own. It’s your job to help them identify which homes are actually worth the time to see.

Your thorough buyer consultation helped establish exactly what the buyers are looking for in their dream home. Leverage that criteria using online property search sites to find several homes for your buyers to view.

1. Set them up on a buyer instant notification (BIN) system that lets them know when a property matching their needs appears on the market.
2. Monitor what your buyers receive from your KW website and app through your back-office tools.
3. Contact them when you find a property they should see. Likewise, ask them to contact you immediately when they find something they would like to see.
4. Continue to check in periodically to see what your buyers think of the homes in their search. If no homes meet their criteria, you may have to meet with them again to realign their expectations.

Keep your buyer’s focus on the top five to seven homes you’ve selected for them to view based on their needs. Use this script:

SCRIPT

Keep the Focus on the Best Homes

| Mr./Ms. Buyer, when we do find the right home, we’ll need to act quickly, and I know you are going to have that feeling of “Well, is there something better out there?” But I have to tell you, the best homes sell right away because they are the best homes. Do you want to see all the homes, or do you want to find the right one quickly? |

Qualify Homes Found Online

You know your buyers will be searching online, so when they call you and are excited because they have found “the one”, remind them that you still need to qualify the home before you jump in the car to show it.

1. Check the MLS to make sure the home is still available.

2. Compare the features of the home with your buyer’s wish list and Five Must-Haves sheet.

   Is it really a good fit, or are the buyers letting an emotional factor cloud their better judgment? If it doesn’t seem like a good match to you, take advantage of the opportunity to further fine-tune their wants and needs. Simply asking two or three questions can save you an hour of time viewing a home that doesn’t meet their criteria.

   | You told me that _______ (feature) was one of your five must-haves. Two of the homes you sent me do not have _______ (feature). Is that something you are willing to give up? |

3. Make a showing appointment. Leverage the trip by checking to see if there are other comparable homes your buyer might want to see at the same time.
Your Turn - Qualify Properties

Choose the Best Properties to Show Your Buyers

1. Choose a partner to work with. One will be the sales representative, and the other will be the buyer.

2. Buyer: Determine the type of home you would like to buy. You can model it after your current home, a home you previously lived in, or even your dream home. Come up with the following criteria: price range, neighbourhood or area, and number of bedrooms and bathrooms. Are there other or special features you would like in a home?

3. Sales representative: Log in to your MLS and enter the buyer’s criteria:
   - Price range (use the average for your area)
   - Neighbourhood (choose one of the most popular or your geographic farm)
   - Number of bedrooms and bathrooms
   - Special features (pool, formal dining room, finished basement, etc.)

4. Sales Representative and Buyer: Determine the Five Must Haves.

5. Sales Representative and Buyer: Based on the number of homes that result from the search, refine their criteria until you have 15 (or fewer) properties to review.

6. Sales Representative and Buyer: Using just these 15 (or fewer) properties, further refine them with your buyer until you have a maximum of five to seven homes.

Time: 15 minutes

2. Show Homes

Organization and the ability to guide your buyers toward a decision will make your home showings successful.

Prepare to Show Homes

- Look at the showing instructions on the MLS to schedule the show times.
- Always call the listing sales representative to see if the home is available and if there have been any offers.
- Set the home tour date with your buyer, with a specific start and end time.
- Try to give a 24-hour notice if possible.
- Check with your buyer to make sure they have earnest money ready if necessary.
- Preview the homes and eliminate any that do not meet their criteria.
- Prepare and educate yourself about the homes and demographics—be the source of information.
- Determine which route to take, always showing the best homes first.
- Arrange to meet with your buyer at your office or in front of the first home you will be touring.
- Print out two detailed MLS information sheets for each property you plan to tour with your buyer.
- Place the MLS information sheets in the order you will tour the properties, and include a home tour checklist for each one so the buyer can record their own comments. Make one set for your buyer and one for yourself.
- Make a copy of the Five Must-Haves sheet that was filled out during the buyer consultation, and include it with the MLS and Home Tour Checklists you will give to your buyers.
Help Buyers View Homes

One of the most important parts of preparing your buyers to evaluate the home is to help them understand the things they should look past. As you ask buyers for their comments on the homes, help them to distinguish between the things they liked and didn’t like.

- If their dislikes are things like the yard size or structure of the home — things that cannot be easily changed — ask them if that is a deal breaker.

- When it comes to things like wall color or lack of landscaping, discuss easy low-cost solutions and help them see past these issues.

- Have your buyers use the Home Tour Checklist to guide them as to what to look at in the home and to make comments.

You should use the Home Tour Checklist as well. Remember: every time you take buyers out to look at a home, you are also previewing the home for other potential buyers. As a real estate expert you need to be aware of what is on the market.

Additional Comments:
Tour the Home

1. Ring the doorbell even if the home has a lockbox. If the property is occupied, ring the bell at least twice before entering. Before going beyond the entry, shout, “Hello, real estate sales representative” a few times to make sure no one is at home.

2. Record your own comments on your copy of the MLS sheet for each property as you show it.

3. Have your buyers give descriptive names to help them visualize the homes individually (e.g., “The Great View House,” “The Creek House,” “The Fountain House,” “The Smelly Cat House”).

4. While touring properties, avoid making comments. Let your buyers come to their own conclusions. Instead, ask questions. You want to get inside their heads to determine if this home is really a match for what they want. Try asking: “What would you change about this house?” This can give you the knowledge you need to get them to the proper home.

5. Help buyers identify their perfect home by pointing out the benefits—not the features—that align with the needs, wants, and values you have already identified with them. Features are attached to the property, benefits are attached to the buyer. For example, if the home has new windows, point out the benefit, not just the fact that they are new: “New windows mean you’ll have lower utility bills, so you’ll have some extra spending money every month.”

6. Have the buyers rank the houses you have shown them in order 1-5. If you are working with a couple, have them do this at the same time to see if they are on the same page. This exercise will help the buyers self-discover as to what is really important to them in their new home.

7. Finally, ask the buyers “Do you see yourself living here?” Follow up with “Why?” or “Why not?” If they respond affirmatively, ask, “Are you ready to make an offer today?”
Home Touring Etiquette

As a professional sales representative, it’s important that you observe basic etiquette when showing homes to your buyers.

- Leave the home as you found it, including lights and AC/heat.
- Be sure to look for and observe all touring notes in the MLS or given by the listing sales representative.
- Be mindful of pets when opening exterior doors or going into the backyard (seller may not realize how dangerous their pets can be to strangers and you don’t want to chase an animal throughout the neighbourhood while your buyers wait.)
- Leave a card on the counter to let the seller know you were there (if the home listing should expire, it may be good that the seller knows you actually brought buyers in).
- Make sure to secure and lock the house when you leave.
- Notify the listing sales representative if you notice anything is wrong.

Your Turn - Benefits

1. Working with a partner, use the chart below to list three common home features you might want a buyer to notice (e.g., new roof, fireplace).

2. List the benefits of that feature.

3. When called upon, stand up and read off the benefits of the feature you listed without naming it. The class will guess what feature you are talking about. Use the extra space provided to write down what the other groups say.

Recognizing Buying Signals as You Tour the Home

Pay attention to your client’s buying signals as you are touring properties. This will give you the leverage you need to help the buyer make a decision.

Once you know who the decision-maker in a family is, keep your focus on them, if possible.

Some of the most common buying signals are listed below.

1. Body language and facial expressions (smiling, brightening up)
2. Asking about a seller’s motivations
3. Asking detailed questions—such as about the seller’s disclosure or taxes
4. Visualizing furniture placement
5. Comparing other houses to it
6. Discussing new paint or carpet
7. Sitting down in the house
8. Becoming protective—not wanting other buyers to see the property
9. Asking for a second showing
10. Raising objections

You may be surprised by number 10. It is a common misconception that objections such as “I don’t like ___________” means that a buyer is not interested in a property. Objections can actually be strong buying signals. When buyers raise an objection to some features of the home, it may mean they are imagining themselves in that home.
Common Objections During Home Viewing

SCRIPT

Objection: We love it, but we haven’t seen enough properties yet.

Mr./Ms. Buyer, my role as your buyer specialist—and the reason why we met for a consultation—is to sort through the homes that meet your criteria and only show you the best available homes, the cream of the crop. And the best homes on the market go fast, usually in one, maybe two, days. If you love this home, chances are someone else does too! Are you willing to lose the perfect home for you, your WOW home, the one you will absolutely love, just so you can see everything out there?

Objection: We really want a formal dining room.

Mr./Ms. Buyer, remember at our first meeting when we talked about there being no such thing as a 100 percent house? (Refer to the Five Must-Haves sheet.) We identified _______ as being the five must-haves in your new home. Has a formal dining room taken precedence over one of these items? If so, which one? (If yes, you will need to begin a new search.)

Objection: We don’t like the carpet/paint color/landscaping.

I hear what you’re saying and this home does offer you a chance to add your own personal touches. Would it be better for you to pay a higher price for the seller to make the changes or just re-do this one thing yourself to meet your specific needs? Great!

The more houses you show them, the less competent they think you are!

Tony DiCello, Vice President Coaching, Research and Development, MAPS
3. Bring Your Buyers to a Decision

Remember, you are not a tour guide with a lockbox key! Your job, once you have helped them find the right home, is to facilitate the decision-making process for your buyers so they can make an offer and get the home they want—before someone else does.

This is an important milestone in the home buying process.

Where there is no passion, there is no vision.
Mo Anderson, Vice Chairman of the Board, Keller Williams Realty
The Decision-Making Process

1. Each time you show a new property, ask your buyer to rank that property on a scale of 1–10. You should each record that number on your Home Tour Checklists. The purpose is to continuously decide which property is ranked at the top for a possible offer. Ask them why they ranked a home lower or higher.

2. After each showing, ask if they want to purchase that home. If not, find out why not. This is your opportunity to further understand or to reassess the buyer’s needs, wants, and values.

3. When you have finished touring homes, put all the MLS sheets together in their order of ranking. Eliminate all but the top two ranking homes.

4. Take the highest scoring home and ask, “So is this one your favorite? Is it going to be your new home? It does meet everything on your checklist, doesn’t it?” You can validate their choice by adding, “I can see why you are so excited about it!”

5. Take the MLS sheet of the top-ranking home, flip it over, and draw a line from top to bottom. On the left side of the line write pros, and on the other side write cons. Dig deep with your questions to truly pull out what they like and don’t like about the home. This way, your buyers don’t feel like you are pushing the home sale on them, and it helps you isolate objections.

6. Ask them to make an offer! Once they have clearly narrowed in on the highest ranking house, help them focus on the next step—making an offer—by asking, “So would it make sense for us to go back to my office to do some research on house prices in the neighbourhood to see what would be a good offer?”
Video

Activity: Create Buyer Urgency

- Watch the video “Create Buyer Urgency” (3:29)
- What are your aha’s?

Time: 5 minutes
What, No Offers?

If your buyers do not want to make an offer on any of the properties you show, make sure you understand why. Then be sure to schedule the next appointment before you say goodbye. Even if you have nothing lined up to show yet, never leave an appointment without scheduling the next!

SCRIPT

Set the Next Appointment

Mr./Ms. Buyer, before we part company, let’s get out our calendars and set up our next meeting to look for that home you want to buy. If nothing worth seeing has hit the market by Friday, I will call you, and we’ll reschedule for the next Saturday.

Overcome Buyer Reluctance

Once you have seen the best houses that meet the buyer’s criteria, you may have to help your buyers overcome buyer reluctance. It’s a common issue many people experience when they are suddenly faced with the reality of making an offer for one of the greatest financial investments of their lives!

Your job is not to try and sell your buyers a home that isn’t right for them, but it is your job to help them recognize when a home fits their needs, wants, and values.

When buyers are sure they like a house, but are reluctant to take the next step to make an offer, reassure them that the simple step of making an offer is not as binding as they may think.
Objection: What if prices drop?

Mr./Ms. Buyer, are you most concerned about the price of the home, or the monthly payment on the mortgage?

Of course, the monthly payment, I would have to agree with you. Let me ask you another question: do interest rates generally go up faster than home prices come down? What do you think?

Yes, no doubt about it. In fact, interest rates could rise one percent tomorrow, right? Well, home prices would have to come down 10 percent to make up for a one percent rise in interest rates. So if you are looking for a $200,000 home, do you think interest rates might go up one percent before home prices come down $20,000 in your price range?

I would definitely agree with you there. So let’s do the right thing and make an offer today before interest rates go up.

Objection: We want to sleep on it.

You’re right. This is a huge decision. However, I have to give you fair warning with as little pressure as possible. If you are ready to write an offer on this home, other buyers may also be ready to write. Being first to write will make a difference in negotiating the best possible price for you.

Is there something specific holding you back? How can I assist you with your decision?

If they still want to wait…

That sounds good. I will call the listing sales representative first thing in the morning to see if the home is still available and then I’ll call you. Do you have any questions on the property I can get answered for you?

Do you have any other purchasing concerns I can assist you with?
Regroup and Rethink

If you have shown more than the average number of homes and your buyers have not made an offer, it is time to go back to the drawing board.

Own it! Whatever the issue was, now it’s time for you to rectify the situation. Sit down with your buyers back at the office and review your needs analysis—perhaps there were things you did not uncover the first time. Get on the MLS together, and refine your search. When a new set of homes comes up, make appointments to see them immediately.

If nothing comes up, it’s best to get to the bottom line quickly, and move on if you are not going to get the results you are after.

SCRIPT

Get to the Bottom Line with Your Buyers

Mr./Ms. Buyer, what you are looking for doesn’t exist. So, we have to make a decision:

1. You can step into a higher price point.
2. You can adjust your expectations.
3. You can step away from the home buying process for a year and see what happens.

What is the best course of action for you?

If they are willing to adjust their expectations, do a new search. If not, re-categorize them as a low priority buyer, and stop devoting your showing time to them.

Keep them on your campaign, and tell them to get in touch with you if a property eventually comes on the market that they would like to see.

Customer Experience Focus

Keep your buyers focused on their objective: finding the home that most closely matches their needs and wants, and then making an offer on it quickly so that it can become theirs!

Be proactive when it comes to communicating as you both try to find the home on the Internet. Establish how they like to keep in touch—is it email, phone calls, or text messages? Talk to them about how often you will be in touch—is it every time a new home comes on the market, plus a weekly communication to check in? Whatever you establish, stick to it!

Also, you will be spending a lot of time with your buyers, so bring plenty of resources to cover any eventuality, and make the experience as comfortable as possible!

Your Turn – Show Homes

“Mock” Show a Home

Practice touring a home, while pointing out benefits and handling objections.

1. Your Ignite faculty will ask for two volunteers – one “sales representative” and one “buyer.”

- Sales representative: Mock show a home by pretending the classroom is the house. Point out features and benefits that correspond to the buyer’s mock needs analysis and handle any objections raised. Assume a Buyer Needs Analysis has been done, so you can reference the mock needs analysis; for example, “Here you will see the formal dining room for the large dinner parties you like to host.”

- Buyer: Raise common objections as you “tour” the home. Objections like “we wanted a bigger yard”, “we want to see more properties”, “I hate the carpeting” and “we want to sleep on it”, etc.

2. All remaining Cappers in Training: Observe the actions of the “sales representative” and “buyer” and jot down notes for constructive feedback.

Bring your phone, laptop/tablet, and database to every class.
Prepare for Your Next Class

Prepare for your next class by completing the Mission prior to the next scheduled Ignite Power Session.

Download your Mission for the next class from Ignite on KWConnect.
Your Turn - Prepare

Targeted Prospecting

Every day in class you will be making calls to specific targeted groups. We will follow the three-step process each time.

1. Prepare – Create your call list for the next class

2. Take Action – Real-Play calls will be made in the next class

3. Maintain – Notes will be written to all those you call in class.

Prepare Your List

For your next class, you will focus on people you know from clubs you belong to (sports, gyms, country club, sorority, etc.) and people you know from places of worship. As usual, include the referrals you’ve received.
