RETAIL LEVEL RECALL

6/8/17

Dear Member,

Medtech Products, Inc is initiating a recall, to the retail level, of one lot of NasalCrom Nasal Spray (cromolyn sodium nasal solution)

Medtech initiated the recall due to an investigation into the remote possibility of the presence of a microbial contamination of the water used to manufacture this lot of product. Although there have been no adverse events that are attributed to microbial contamination, a review of the literature demonstrates the possibility for health consequences in the immunocompromised population in the remote circumstances that a unit contains the microorganism. Finished product testing did not reveal the presence of the microorganism, but the possibility that it might exist cannot be excluded. Therefore, this recall is being performed out of an abundance of caution.

PLEASE NOTE THE RECALL ONLY COVERS THE BELOW LOT
