Evaluation of myocardial perfusion differences under influence of anaesthesia by means of bull’s eye images. - R. Lauwers
Combined spinal epidural analgesia in labour: effects on maternal glycaemia. - M. Van de Velde
Low-dose combined spinal epidural anesthesia for Cesarean section: neosynephrine versus ephedrine: effects on maternal hemodynamics and fetal acid base status. - M. Van de Velde
Epidual neostigmine and clonidine increase the quality of labour epidural analgesia: a placebo-controlled, prospective, double-blind trial. - M. Van de Velde
Obstetric anaesthesia in Belgium: the first nationwide survey on current practice. - M. Van de Velde
Characteristics, obstetric and anaesthetic outcome of the syndrome of Hemolys, Elevated Liver enzymes, Low Platelets (HELLP) in a tertiary referral center. - M. Van de Velde
Low-dose intravenous ketamine and clonidine for poor postoperative opioid responsiveness: a double-blind randomized study with negative result. - J.C. Salengros
Left ventricular perforation during thoracic aorta stenting. - D. Schmartz
Impact of trunk positioning and leg flexion on the abdominal elastance during bariatric surgery. - J. Muller
The urinary bladder compliance is different from the abdominal compliance. - J. Muller
CT analysis of the elastic deformation and elongation of the abdominal wall during colon inflation for virtual coloscopy. - J. Muller
Use of pressure support ventilation during laparoscopic bariatric surgery is possible and facilitates weaning and extubation. - J. Muller
Hypercapnic support ventilation during laparoscopic gastric bypass operations increases the cardiac output. - J. Muller
Individualisation of peroperative analgesic needs: Interest of Surgical Photoplethysmographic Index (SPI) changes in response to a reference tetanos stimulus. - J.O. Dolomie
MUSTIMEG: a new device for polytopic EMG as perioperative neuromuscular monitoring. - N. Van Cutsem
Rapid prediction of individual remifentanil requirement before skin incision using pupil reflex dilation. - L. Perrin
Effect of low dose Ketamine administered by a slow bolus infusion on the Bispectral. Index during stable Propofol-Remifentanil Anaesthesia. - D. Faraoni
Ropivacaine-impregnated hernia prosthesis: a simple but efficient procedure in day-care surgery. - L. Bouche
Continuous Interscalene plexus block for postoperative pain control, after arthroscopic shoulder surgery: Necessary or not? - V. Decaigny.
Ultrasound guided vs nerve stimulation: Is there an influence on the anesthetic block occurrence during sciatic nerve regional anesthesia: a clinical and electrophysiological study. - V. Alexis
Influence of entropy monitoring on drug consumption during and after long lasting TCI anesthesia. - Van Rompaey
Perioperative HES 130/0.4 Administration Does not Reduce Vomiting after Gynaecological Surgery. - L. Haentjens
Adjustment of anesthetic technique in children affected by Charcot-Marie-Tooth disease. - N. Najafi
While managing post- tonsillectomy pain in children at home; Are we forgetting something or somebody? - N. Najafi
Popliteal block after hallux valgus surgery: comparison between continuous infusion of levobupivacaine as such and in combination with patient-controlled bol. - A. Peperstraete
Ropivacaine 0.5%, Levobupivacaine 0.5% and 0.75% for intraoperative anaesthesia by popliteal sciatic nerve block: A Prospective, Randomized, Double-Blind Comparison with Mepivacaine 1%. - S. Vanden Boer
