

Special Needs Planning or Life Care Planning Resources

One of the greatest challenges for individuals living with a spinal cord injury and their caregivers is understanding and anticipating future needs. Creating and maintaining a Life Care Plan can help you define, organize, prioritize and initiate your health, wellness, safety and quality of life options.

Since care requirements and expenses change over time, a Life Care Plan is designed to be a dynamic document that can be adapted to fit shifting current and future needs. Usually developed with assistance from a life care planning professional, the plan uses published standards of practice, comprehensive assessments, data analysis and research to determine the lifetime needs of an individual with a disability.

Some of the topics addressed in a Life Care Plan include medical care and evaluations, therapies, medical and adaptive equipment, modifications and aids for independent living, medications, home care/facility care, transportation and potential complications. This fact sheet includes links to sources for researching and understanding some of the services and resources available to assist in creating a comprehensive Life Care Plan. Please also see our ABLE Act fact sheet for information on tax-advantaged savings accounts for people with disabilities.
