Bellevue Grand Connection
Segment 2 & I-405

If you liked it then you should’ve put a lid on it…
Creating Connections in Bellevue

Overall Challenges:

- Mega-Blocks
- Not pedestrian friendly
- Bellevue Way is a Barrier
- Lack of Public/Civic Space
- Chaotic Place
- Limited amenities for expanding users
- One city divided by I-405
Creating Connections in Bellevue | Segment 2

Commerce and Culture Meet

Challenges
- Pedestrians and Automotive are in conflict
- Chaotic travel experience
- No cohesive identity
- No Public gathering space

Opportunities
- Create central civic gathering space
- Separate car from pedestrian
Creating Connections in Bellevue | Segment 2
Commerce and Culture Meet
Creating Connections in Bellevue | Segment 2
Commerce and Culture Meet

Allows for direct vehicle access without pedestrian conflict
Creating Connections in Bellevue | Segment 2

Commerce and Culture Meet
Bridging the Tracks
Creating Connections in Bellevue | Segment I-405

Challenges:
Impenetrable traffic & topography

Opportunities:

Transportation
Join pedestrian, bike, bus, + transit

Lid
Solve traffic and topography

Activation
Art, play, + services for users

Bike/pedestrians
Clear + continuous pathway
Thank You

Bob Swain  |  Robert Edson Swain Architects
Jim Burk   |  Su Development
Deb Eddy   |  King County
Heather Karch | ZGF Architects
Jared Milne | Washington State University
Kirsten Murray | Olson Kundig
Jeffery Utterback | Port of Seattle
Ming Zhang  |  MZA Architecture