

Bomb Is Exploded in Little Havana

Building Windows Shattered Terror Reign Continues

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A pre-dawn bomb today shattered windows in four stores of a building, which an anti-Castro revolutionary organization was recently evicted in Miami's Little Havana section.

Capt. Tom Brodie of the Metro police bomb squad said the charge, equivalent to a pound of dynamite, blew a hole in the sidewalk, sprayed glass over busy 12th Avenue just south of Flagler Street and twisted a metal awning on the front of the building.

No one was injured. The blast was the latest in a nine-month reign of terror bombings that has hit Cuban establishments and individuals whom some Cubans claim are in sympathy with Fidel Castro.

The two stores in which today's blast was centered had been until three months ago the Alpha 66, a group which has been among the most militant in staging assaults on the Cuban mainland.

Sanford Close, owner of the building, said he went to court three months ago to force the group out of his building.

The group had become a nuisance, Close said.

Andres Nazario, secretary-general of Second Front Alpha 66, said "I am surprised."

Nazario said it was not up to him to comment on the bombing since his organization "is no longer there, but has moved to better quarters."

Other bombs, believed set by Cuban terror groups, have exploded recently in New York and Los Angeles. Miami's string of at least 10 blasts and several more attempts began Jan. 20 when a bomb damaged an airplane loaded with packages for Cuba.

More than 200,000 Cuban refugees fled from the island since an exile colony fractionated by dissension.

40 Protest
Sewer Line
Project

NEWTOWN — The township sewer authority heard about 40 protesters from residents Wednesday night on unfinished work and incomplete replacement of the sewer line for the new sewer lines.

The complaints included damages to lawns, sidewalks and driveways and incomplete installation of roads, causing flooding problems.

Most complaints were directed toward the Smith Construction Co. The board is making a survey Saturday of the construction area.

Board President Vram Nedarian said "I am sure we have definite information and cannot without payment of the sewer contract unless it is possible there is not full compliance with the contract."

Michael Reese, a resident of 4 Radnor Drive, asked to see the films and requested that they be notarized. Broken sidewalks have been seen only partly fixed, he said, and the driveways have not been repaved to meet the roadway properly.

Parents to Tour
School in Hook

MARCUS HOOK — Parents of children attending the Marcus Hook Elementary School may tour the building during an Open House day on Monday.

The tour will be preceded by a luncheon at 2:30 p.m.

NEW UNIFORMS of Chichester Elementary Bands are modeled by majorette Joan Sykes, 11, and tuba player Paul Hopkins, 10.

Band Will Parade In Special Uniforms

ASTON — When the Aston B.S. 11th grade band, which is the only band in the district, will be wearing their new uniforms for the first time.

The band is the 90-member Chichester School District elementary band, composed of pupils from all schools in the district.

The parade will begin at 9 a.m. at Mt. Hope Church and go along Concord Road to the Village Green Shopping Center on Pinesboro Avenue and end at Sun Valley High School.

The young Chichester bandmen will wear maroon blazers with gold buttons, a white ascot and black trousers.

The 11 majorettes will wear fitted uniforms with a flared skirt.

Head majorette Kathy Cox and head twirler Joan Sykes will have white cordwain uniforms with maroon cord on the bodice.

The other girls, Linda Price, Lynn Richardson, Vicki Simpkins, Lorrie Snyder, Brenda Bennett, Karen Daleston, Sharon Jenkins, Aleta Marcell and Patty Murphy, have maroon uniforms with white cord.

Joseph Berthe is band director.

The group will present four concerts next week in district elementary schools. On Sept. 28 they will march at a football game.

Therapist Named

MIDDLETOWN — Charles H. Hewlings, 27, of 638 Mt. Alverno Road, has joined the staff at Fair Acres Farm, the county home for the aged in Lima, as a physical therapist.

Historic House
Vandalized Again

NORWOOD — Borough particularly during archaeological studies which are going on now at the historic house.

Council signed a formal agreement with the U.S. Housing and Urban Development (HUD) and approved a contract with Price & Dickey of West Chester, architects in charge of the restoration, subject to approval by HUD.

No contract price was announced but council said it was not to exceed the amount of money available.

game for the first time with a halftime appearance during the Chichester-Collingdale game.

Other bands in Friday's parade will be Sun Valley, Clifton Heights, Penn-Delco Junior High, Garnet Valley, Interboro and the Greater Overbrook String Band.

The Aston Athletic Association, several drill teams and floats will be included.

The parade will take the place of the businessmen's association's annual Halloween parade.

Training
Classes Set
In Chester

CHESTER — Classes to train unemployed and underemployed out-of-school youths and adults are planned for the students.

Beginning Oct. 14, two arc welding courses will instruct 40 students in a nine-week, 40-hours-a-week program.

A shifting class and a pipefitting class are scheduled to begin Oct. 21 and Oct. 25, respectively. Both classes will be conducted for 18 weeks, 40 hours per week, and will graduate up to 20 students each.

The new courses are a result of a $63,000 federal Manpower Development and Training Act grant.

The grant will be used to conduct the courses and to provide training and traveling allowances for the students.

Applications for admission to the courses will be accepted at the Chester Employment Service Office at 11th St. and Elsinore Place until the classes are filled.

Robert Hogg of the board of health said two "rat cafeterias" had been put there.

Commissioner Samuel Erb mentioned that excavating for the lake at the township park near Weir Road began and that swings and seesaws have been installed at Savage Park on Seward Lane.

Proposed Carwash Protested

ASTON — Forty Aston residents, mostly living on Bridgewater Road, voiced objections Wednesday night to proposed carwash, and presented a petition with 44 names.

Objections given were hazards to children, additional traffic to an already heavily traveled road and drifter-type employees.

They also questioned if the tax revenue of $600 was worth the nuisance, and what hours the carwash would remain open, stating that there already was drag racing on Bridgewater Road.

Robert Dobkins, representing Top Enterprises, who want to build the carwash, said it would handle about 1,300 cars a week, which would mean less than 200 cars a day. The company, he said, would post a bond insuring cleanliness.

At this point the commissioners, who had been conferring with Township Solicitor Ralph D'Orto, stated that since this area is partly zoned commercial and partly residential, it would be necessary to hold a special public hearing.

In the special public hearing, Commissioner Ted Sickles stated that a 100 cubic yards of dirt have been dumped in the ravine at Mildred Avenue. There is still 200 feet of dirt needed.

He emphasized that the dirt was acquired at no cost, since tax money cannot be used for this purpose. He urged residents to notify the police if anyone is seen dumping refuse in this property.

Darlene Dutton mentioned that the board of health had removed two one-ton loads of junk and two junk cars, and they do intend to remove the rest of the trash in the next two weeks. They have found the material they have found, which identifies some of the owners, over the dump.

Between Need Lane and Seward Lane, the board of health had sent letters to residents in that area, who are responsible for the property. She also mentioned to know if anything had been done about the rats.

Commissioner Samuel Erb mentioned that excavating for the lake at the township park near Weir Road began and that swings and seesaws have been installed at Savage Park on Seward Lane.

34 Units Meet on Problems

Black Actions Are Discussed

CHESTER — Thirty-four black community organizations discussed plans Wednesday night for a more unified approach to the problems of Afro-Americans in the city.

Some of the ideas which have been considered exist in the explanation of the meeting at the Thomas M. Thomas Center, 1414 W. 3rd St.

Mrs. Adell Swain, staff member at the Thomas Center, said "White people want to come to our areas and help us in our fight for freedom, but we don't want that any more."

"We tell them, 'Go back, educate your own, then you can work with us.'"

Other groups, like the Young Men's Christian Association, began — which began with the death of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

These groups were organized to try to prevent any violence here after the assassination.

Robert Woodson, director of the Media Fellowship House, said "The only white group I respect is a group that is willing to confront other white groups."

"We can take care of our own better than any white group, just as they can confront the system more effectively than we can."

"We don't want the white man to give us anything because if he tells you you can come in, he can tell you to go out," he said.

He cited an example of blacks helping themselves.

He said Washington was pumping millions of dollars into Pennsylvania for mental health care, black communities which was being used to help psychiatrists set up practices which didn't benefit the poor.

He testified at a Senate hearing in Harrisburg and a new law was passed regarding the appropriation of federal funds to the Commonwealth, he said.

Other speakers represented the General Services Administration, the Consumers Education and Protective Organization, the Clean Air Act, the Paint and Varnish Association, the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation, the Black Youth Advisory Committee, Black Youth Center, the Greater Chester Movement and the Welfare Rights Organization.

The general feeling in the meeting was expressed by Woodson.

There is no reason a white man should own a movie theater in your neighborhood and take the money and spend it outside.

"We've tried for so long, but I'm tired of failures. From now on, when we do things, let's do them big."

Bill Would Ban
'Projections'

U.S. Rep. Lawrence G. Williams (R-7th District) of Springfield was one of four Pennsylvania congressmen who introduced legislation today to prevent radio and television stations from broadcasting "projections" on the eve of elections before all polls are closed in the state.

The sponsors felt broadcast projections based on fragmentary returns were often erroneous and could influence voters who had not yet cast their ballots.

'Old Time Revue' Opens Celebration

By JUNE HUDSON

Daily Times Correspondent
ALDEN — This thorough, known as "The Community of Homes," will celebrate its 75th anniversary Friday through Sunday.

An "Old Time Revue" will begin the festivities at 8 p.m. Friday in the Woodlawn Avenue Elementary School auditorium.

The show will include dancing, singing, skits and Gay 80s costumes.

A dance will follow the show. A parade featuring antique cars, pony-driven carts, large wheel cycles, costumes and floats will be Saturday morning.

On hand also will be several beauty queens.

The 10-member Sun Valley High School Band and various drum and bugle corps will provide the music and drill teams from various communities will perform in the parade.

Also in the parade will be representatives of the Marine, local fire companies and every club, association and scouting group in Alden.

The parade will start at 10 a.m. on Providence Road and Clifton Ave.

The parade will go north on Clifton to Linden Avenue, south on Linden to Magnolia Avenue, west on Magnolia to Ridge Avenue, north on Ridge to W. Wayne Avenue, and along W. Wayne to Woodlawn Avenue.

Following the parade, the activities will shift to the borough recreation grounds at the end of Shiller Avenue, where a carnival will be sponsored by various borough organizations.

Included in the afternoon events will be games, children's entertainment, a barber shop quartet, a string band and a rock and roll group.

Pony rides will be available and the scouts and fire companies will give demonstrations.

A display of some of the antiques of Alden, including pictures, will be in the recreation building.

A spaghetti dinner will be served at the Legion Hall adjacent to the carnival of booths.

There will be an outdoor square dance from 8 to 11 p.m. The Alden Union Church will commemorate the anniversary at their evening service on Sunday.

Rev. William Allan Dean, who recently retired, will officiate.

Two Accident
Victims Improve

Two persons critically injured in an automobile accident Tuesday night are improving at Riddle Memorial Hospital, Middletown.

Robert Cochran, 32, of Tacoma, Md., was reported in satisfactory condition today at the hospital.

Mercer, 77, of 209 8th St., Upland, was listed in fair condition.

School Boycott
Gains Momentum

refused to elaborate on the boycott details.

"It isn't as apparent what we're doing," Reeves said as he carried a sign demanding "Better Education for Our Children."

A last night being distributed in parents and children around the school said, "Keep your children home to protest the poor conditions at Watts."

Parents were advised to send their children to the Thomas M. Thomas Center, 1414 W. 3rd St., where a substitute school has been set up by ACP.

A list of seven "poor conditions" were listed, including the lack of a school nurse, old and damaged books, replacement of windows in Rooms 6 and 8, and a new paint job for the entire building. ACP also requested "Vast" to close down and go through the school with PTA members.

Van, however, declined to comment on the apparent boycott.

When questioned about the boycott, a number of parents carrying a "We are united" sign said they would not comment.

But one said, "Look at the school. There's your story. This

12 Bids Received On School

NETHER PROVIDENCE —

The school board Wednesday accepted bids from 12 companies for the steel and concrete work on the new high school and set the date for final approval of the general construction plans.

No contract was awarded for the bids when all the companies could not agree on each of the items advertised. The bids were referred to the school board, Philadelphia, Pa., who will be the responsible bidder.

While they have 60 days in which to determine the contract, John Palmer Smith, school board president, said he hopes contracts can be awarded next week.

Only two companies bid on the total job. They were Frank Co. of Philadelphia, Pa., whose estimate was $600,500.

Frank Construction Co. of Philadelphia, Pa., whose estimate was $600,500.

Only one bid was on the steel work. It was from the steel work: Filigian Steel Co. of Glassboro, N.J., $442,200.

Reinforced concrete, $442,200.

Cherry Steel Corp., Hightstown, N.J., $442,200.

O'Neill Steel Corp., Philadelphia, Pa., $442,200.

Those who bid only on the concrete were Robert G. Holter, Bala Cynwyd, $353,500, and Curtis Co., West Chester $32,000.

The next major step toward construction of the new school is approval of the general construction plans which Smith announced the board hopes to do at a special public meeting Oct. 8 in the high school library.

At that time the final drawings will be exhibited and discussed before authorizing advertising for bids. Plans call for the school to be completed by Christmas, 1969 with some classrooms ready for occupancy in September.

The secondary school enrollment is already 1,616 students which is higher than the projected figure of 1,600 for the township.

Trash Pickup Set

RUTLEDGE — The borough will collect large items of trash Saturday. To be left at the curb is trash not normally collected.

is the way black people have to educate their children."

As two children approached the school, one woman asked them if they knew where the Thomas Center was located.

When asked, "Well, you go there and you'll get stuff, you know and a hot lunch too."

Without a word, the girls headed toward the center.

Leaders Needed
By Cub Pack

COLLINGDALE — Cub Pack 417 needs a scoutmaster and a Webelos leader, according to Mrs. Carl C. Casauerano, its Westmont Drive, Park secretary.

If no one can be found, the pack will have to disband, Mrs. Casauerano said.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Patrick Cardinal O'Bryen, calling dissenting Catholic priests in one by one, has persuaded at least 11 of them for refusing to retract their stand on Pope Paul's birth control encyclical.
