

January 14, 1969

Dear Dale:

I do not expect to make a contribution to the Alumni Fund this year. I feel that if the students are going to run the college, they should finance it. I also feel if they know how to run things already, an "education" in the old-fashioned sense is probably wasted on them. I already carry an ever-increasing burden in taxes for social & educational programs, plus the burden of certain post

(2)

old-fashioned charities which taxes will never support; consequently I cannot now see my way toward paying for support of an institution which is so poorly supported by its administrators that students are permitted to disobey, & so poorly accepted by the students that they do not observe the rules of either the community or the college as responsible persons desiring to be taught. Sorry about this.
Jas S. Colburn '39