Collect Tues. For Int'l Program Ninth Grade Will Cover Both Boroughs

Students of the ninth grade will visit residences in the school district on Monday evening, May 11th, to collect funds for the Swarthmore International Exchange Program. The annual collection is directed by Mrs. Robert Moyer, 9th grade co-chairman. The towns are divided into 12 districts. Student district captains divide the streets among the collectors. Captains are:

District 1: Cathy Wray; 2: Dave Foley; 3: Jake Douglas; 4: Barbara Hayden; 5: Valerie Horton; 6: John Roxy; 7: Gayle Wright; 8: Richard Koelle; 9: Anne Martha Logue; 10: Sue Dunne; 11: Brad Morris; 12: Mike Bates and Sue Kamersky.

Students are collecting to meet a $2000 budget which supports the exchange student program. For each AFS student, the committee must send $250 to the New York office. The rest of the money is used for local expenses and for a small fund for local students who are selected to go abroad.

This year Felicity Sproule from Natal, South Africa, is living with the Ralph Youngs of Cedar Lane. Felicity is sponsored by AFS. Ulrich Loock from Braunschweig, Germany, is living with the Theodore Howitz family on Cricket Lane, Wallingford. Ulrich is here under the sponsorship of American Friends Service Committee School Affiliation Program.

This summer Heather Coker will go to Finland, Pamela Swing to Denmark, Sally McNair to Sweden, Jeff Kippax to Argentina and Gail Young to Brazil on the YFU (Youth for Understanding) Program. Peggy Gatewood will go abroad on the AFS Program and is waiting to hear where she will be sent.

Those who have a home on May 11th may mail their checks to the Scott Foundation.

Enough Dissent?

Dissent is the right of every American, but we raise the question as to whether we haven't had about enough of it for awhile.

The President of the United States can make mistakes, as any of us can. Whether Cambodia is one of them can be debated as a moral issue and honest men can disagree. Whether it is a mistake from a practical standpoint it is too early to tell. It may be — or it may not be. We will know better a month from now.

Meanwhile consider what the man is up against. James Reston, scarcely a Nixon champion, but a fair-minded man, stated the situation in the New York Times of May 6: the fight against inflation has been going badly; there is turmoil on the labor front, with more to come; the budget surplus has disappeared; the stock market is in a spin; the Paris peace talks have bogged down; the Soviets, who have the gall to preach to us, are escalating the Mid-East conflict; college students go on nation-wide strike, which whatever its merits or lack of same, could hardly delight Hanoi more. As Mr. Reston concludes: more violence and counter-violence, who needs it?

As mentioned in the beginning, dissent is all right but haven't we had enough? Just maybe the thing that would help this country the most right now would be a little support for the President of the United States. Not because his name is Nixon. Not because he happens to be a Republican. Not because he is always right. But because he is the President of a country in trouble and under attack.

What he needs the least right now is more difficulty at home. What he needs the most is a little help. Whether or not you agree with this, we submit that it is worth a little thought.

TEA TOMORROW

HONORS MRS. SHAPP

Mrs. Muriel Shapp, wife of Milton Shapp, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor in the May 19 Primary, will be honored at a tea tomorrow to be held from 4 p.m. to 6 at the home of Mrs. Frances Jackson, 514 Cedar Lane. All are welcome to come meet her.

When not campaigning for her husband's nomination, Mrs. Shapp teaches science and history at the Senior Adult Program sponsored by the Young Men's Hebrew Association. She is also a volunteer vocational and guidance counselor at the Jewish Vocational Guidance Center.

Mrs. Shapp has taught high school and been a discussion leader in the Philadelphia School system. In her leisure time she enjoys painting, sculpture, sewing, and gardening.

Republican Women Set Pre-Primary Coffee

Unstadd of Villanova will discuss informally her activities as chairman of the Pennsylvania Council of Republican Women's Concern Committee, the uninvited porography which comes into the home via the U.S. Mail, the movie advertisement page of the local newspaper, and some of the television programming during children's viewing hours.

Mrs. Unstadd was also Pennsylvania Chairman of the Republican National Committee's Leadership Conference.

Not Always

Business as Usual For Campus Community

Many students and faculty at the college are expressing their opposition to President Nixon's recent decisions regarding the war in Southeast Asia by suspending their normal academic schedules. Joining in the nationwide cessation of business as usual on college and university campuses, students and faculty during the past week have engaged in a wide variety of activities to express their opposition, to examine the issues raised by the President's action, and to carry their concern into neighboring communities.

Workshops have been held on campus, students have met with local church groups and have visited high schools and business organizations.

The faculty of the college, as a body, were expected to issue a statement about the Cambodian development and to make decisions regarding the academic schedule for the rest of the semester on Wednesday. Some faculty and students were continuing to hold scheduled classes and seminars.

The following statement was subscribed to on Monday by striking students and faculty: "We, the striking students and faculty of Swarthmore, in an expression of solidarity with the current national strike, are suspending business as usual for an indefinite period of time in order to devote our energies to educating ourselves and others about the present national crisis." Their motto "on strike, keep it open," made clear that they did not wish the College to close but rather to become actively involved in the current political situation.

Red Cross Branch Hits 100 Percent

The Capital Campaign of the Red Cross to build a new service and blood center in Philadelphia is well underway, with congratulations just received by the Swarthmore Branch on being the first to complete its bond solicitation. The local branch has had 100 percent response from its board members who pledged $1,600.

This marks the first capital campaign in the 84-year history of the Southeastern Pennsylvania Chapter of the American Red Cross to improve and expand services in the Delaware Valley. Plans are to construct a combined center at 23rd and Chestnut streets, to replace over-taxed and widely scattered space currently used in four converted residential buildings.

According to the local chairman Mrs. Walter N. Moir, few people in the area have remained untouched by one or more Red Cross services. Every Swarthmore resident is guaranteed needed blood due to the successful annual blood donor drive. In addition, the new center will increase the effectiveness of disaster assistance, first aid, water safety, life saving, and "the helping hand" to servicemen and their families.

The campaign continues through the middle of May in Swarthmore, and anyone wishing to contribute is invited to do so. Information can be received by calling Mrs. Robert Grogan, KI 3-0314; Mrs. F.T. Anthony, KI 4-3850, or Mrs. F.T. Moir, KI 3-0498 or KI 3-3526.

Offers $100,000 For Black Studies

Michener Donor For Race Relation Program

Pulitzer prize winning novelist James Michener has offered $100,000 over a five-year period to Swarthmore College for black studies and race relation programs. Michener, a 1929 alumnus of the college whose books have dealt with racial relationships - "Tales of the South Pacific," "Hawaii" - offered the grant in the following letter to Swarthmore Vice President Joseph B. Shane:

"No problem in American life merits more careful attention than how to achieve a just relationship between the races that comprise this nation. At present the focus of this ever-present problem centers on black-white relationships. With blacks representing one-eighth of our human potential, it would be simple stupidity for us to remain any educational practices which did not encourage them to develop and use their abilities to the full. It is to the interest of all of us that constructive solutions to present difficulties be found."

"Where better to study this problem than at a liberal arts college? Especially if the college, because of its Quaker associations, has a long history of dealing sympathetically with all problems of race? If a great college like Swarthmore cannot confront these questions and solve them amicably, then our society is truly in perilous danger."

Churches Unite To Aid Low Income Housing

The Rev. William Sharp of the United Methodist Church here was named convener of an Interfaith group from the Swarthmore Churches that will try to raise $19,000 by May 11 to help Chester West End Ministerial Fellowship, Inc., begin construction of eight non-profit townhouses for low-income families at 8th and Yarnall streets.

The Methodist and Leiper Presbyterian Churches and the Friends Meeting have already agreed to try to raise $13,000 toward the amount.

John Frommer of Trinity Church was named chairman of a special committee formed to work out the mechanics of raising collateral if the financing bank will accept it in place of cash. Others on the committee are:

Brooke Bunting, also from Trinity; Arden Johnson of Leiper; Benjamin Hecksher of Swarthmore Presbyterian; John Logue of Notre Dame de Lourdes, E. C. Bennett of the Meeting and Frank Eisenhower of the Methodist Church.

condition. In fact, one might argue that Swarthmore was especially qualified because of its past history and present concern to lead the way in the peaceful solution of just such problems.

"As a graduate of Swarthmore, I have been deeply interested in the manner in which black-white relationships have developed on the campus. I have been gratified that my college tried its best to handle various confrontations in the traditional Quaker manner. I have been appalled when the vocabularies of violence were escalated unnecessarily. But always I was pleased that these matters were coming to a head at Swarthmore, repeating to myself, 'Where could there be a better place for discussion and solution?'"

"I have not always agreed with the solutions found, but if ever I was tempted to intemperate reaction I consoled myself with the idea that the college people on the scene knew a lot more about this problem than I did. I continue to feel that way. Therefore, with my wife's encouragement, for she has worked in the field of race relations for most of her life, I offer a grant of $100,000 to be paid over a period of five years, so that the College may be free to explore various aspects of the movement to liberate and educate the capacities of the black members of our society. The money may be spent in such ways as the College deems best but I would hope that Swarthmore College blacks and whites together - will continue to explore the program in black studies, to develop an adequate program for a black cultural center that will encourage people of all races to participate, and to explore the most effective kinds of pre and post-enrollment support program."

Vice President Shane has expressed the college's appreciation for the offer; "Swarthmore accepts this generous and timely gift. Many thanks to thee, Jim McInerney."

Lecturer Discusses Thought Control

Thought control in some form threatens every member of today's society, a Christian Science lecturer told an audience in Swarthmore on Saturday.

Misuse of mass media, direct propaganda, electronic influence of the brain in the future, all in their way point toward the conformity and control of thought that is abhorrent to free people, said Nathaniel R. White of Rumson, N.J.

The lecture, titled "What controls Your Thought?" was sponsored by First Church of Christ, Scientist.

Mr. White referred to the modern implications of the ancient Greek word that is the root of cybernetics. The original Greek term, he said, meant the art of the helmsman or his who steers.

Today, he explained, cybernetics usually means control of thought and environment by electronic means. In some contexts, he added, the term refers directly to the study of the brain and the substitution of electronic direction for people's own thinking. He told of scientific experiments in which emotions, such as anger and hate, or their opposites, can be induced in animals through electronic impulses.

Research specialists in such fields, Mr. White commented, should be credued with a desire to help the human race; but we must be aware of the possibility of far less worthy purposes, he warned.

The main portion of Mr. White's lecture dealt with the influence of Christian Science and its enabling of thoughtful people to control their own lives through a deeper understanding of God. "Our concept of what controls us," he said, "sets and steers the whole course of our daily lives."

GAS air conditioning

...the practical way to summer comfort!

Practical because if you have a gas warm-air heating system, it can be adapted to include gas air conditioning. You already have half the makings of summer-long cooling! With central gas air conditioning, you enjoy clean, quiet, peak efficiency performance. There's less maintenance, too, because gas cooling systems have fewer moving parts.

For full details on all the practical features of central gas air conditioning, call JOE HOLLY at WA 2-4700, or visit our local office nearest you.
