

Chloe Hanslip

Violinist

British violinist Chloë Hanslip has securely established herself on the international stage. Since her BBC Proms debut in 2002, she has performed regularly at major venues in the UK, Europe, the United States, and the Far East. With a special affinity for contemporary repertoire, she plays the concertos of John Adams, Benjamin Britten, John Corigliano, Peter Maxwell Davies, Philip Glass, Huw Watkins, Michael Nyman, and Brett Dean's The Lost Art of Letter Writing.

Ms. Hanslip will make her debut this season with the New Jersey Symphony under Xian Zhang, performing Korngold's Violin Concerto. Other North American engagements have included the philharmonics of Buffalo, Oklahoma City, and Reno, the Sarasota Orchestra, and the symphonies of Alabama, Cincinnati, Detroit, Cincinnati, Edmonton, Eugene, Houston, Jacksonville, Phoenix, and Virginia.

Worldwide, she has appeared with the Adelaide, Symphony, Auckland Philharmonia, Bavarian Radio Orchestra, BBC Concert Orchestra at the Proms, Beethoven Orchester/Bonn, Violins of the Berlin Philharmonic, Lahti Symphony/Finland, London Symphony, Malaysian Philharmonic, Minas Gerais Philharmonic Orchestra/Brazil, Moscow Symphony, Norwegian Radio Symphony, Orchestra Sinfonica di Lugano, Orquesta Sinfonica de Castilla y Leon, Prague Symphony, Royal Scottish National Orchestra, Singapore Symphony, Tokyo Metropolitan Symphony, and Tonkünstlerorchester in Vienna, to name a few.

A committed chamber musician, Ms. Hanslip is a regular participant at music festivals across Europe, including Båstad/Sweden, Kuhmo/Finland, Kutná Hora/Czech Republic, and West Cork/Ireland. She is also an active recitalist both in the United States and the UK, performing regularly with recital partners including Danny Driver, Angela Hewitt, Charles Owen, Igor Tchetuev, and Ashley Wass.

A serious recording artist, Chloë Hanslip's first release on the Hyperion label featured the Vieuxtemps violin concertos with the Royal Flemish Philharmonic under Martyn Brabbins (2012). Three other recordings, released the following year, included "York Bowen – The complete works for violin and piano" with pianist Danny Driver, which received recommendations from Gramophone (Choice) and The Strad. For Rubicon Classics, her first release is one of a three-disc series featuring the complete Beethoven Violin sonatas, also with pianist Danny Glover. Completion of this series will take place during the current season at Turner Sims Concert Hall in the UK.
