This week we started taking the biggest test of the year, the STAAR, where you must show all you learned during the year. This Tuesday, 7th graders took the Writing test, and 8th graders took the Math test; and on Wednesday 8th graders took the Reading test.

There is still more to come. The best way to prepare for the STAAR is to get a good night's sleep. Mrs. Jarnagin said, "You need about 8 hours of sleep". Another important thing is to drink lots of water. Mrs. Jarnagin also said, "You need to be hydrated to stay focused". You also need to eat a healthy and filling breakfast. Peanut butter and toast are very filling, and eggs and bacon are nutritious. One of the most important things to do is to study. Mrs. Bicknell said "Getting ready for the test is something you prepare for the entire year and not just the night before". She also said, "you should go get help from your teachers and go to tutorials if you need help and don't understand". Studying for your test will help you remember the material you have learned that you don't remember as much. If you have a really hard time with that subject; your teachers would be more than happy to help.

The STAAR can affect our school rating that determines whether or not the school goes into Campus Improvement. Campus Improvement is when the school does not get a good enough rating so they must hire special professionals for teachers and their training. Also it brings Mr. Garcia a ton of extra paperwork; and extra teacher training.

The STAAR can be very stressful and exhausting; so keep calm and don't stress. We know how hard it can be for some people; so for those people we congratulate you for your hard efforts. Don't be nervous. If you know the material, you are bound to pass.
