Conversations with Mrs. Clark

The single most important thing you can do for your children is to read to them, with them, and encourage a lifelong habit of picking up a book. Start this summer! Create a reading spot for your children. Give them praise for the books they bring home. Take them to the library. The one message I harp on is that someday these children will have to read your medical records and we should give them good skills to ensure that they understand all the medical jargon! LOL

Happy Spring!

Mrs. Clark
