

January

2014

This month we will be talking about snow and cold weather. This is always a fun time of year for some more "hands on" learning! We will be talking about what animals and people do when the weather gets cold outside. Our classroom will be reading "The Mitten" by Jan Brett as well as many other winter themed books to help guide us through this month! We will also continue to focus on letters of the week and will be beginning with letters that curve, such as "C" and "G."

IMPORTANT DATES:

January 20: No school, Martin Luther King Day

February 12: Early dismissal at 1:15

February 12-13: Parent/Teacher Conferences in the afternoon/evening

February 14: No school

Please make sure to read notes that go home so you will be kept -to-date with what is happening at the school. Mr. Renoud sends home a NEST on Thursdays as well as our monthly newsletter and other notes that come come. If you are unable to find a note in your child's backpack, visit: www.wellsville-usd289.org.

Find our classroom site with newsletters. There is also a link to our facebook page as well as what books we are reading in class.

This month, please make sure that there is an extra set of clothes in your child's backpack. We rarely need extra clothes, but it is so nice to have just in case of an accident or water spill. If you have already done this, please make sure the clothes are weather appropriate. Make sure to pack a pair of pants, shirt, underwear, and a pair of socks.

I hope you all had a wonderful holiday. Stay warm! Katie
