

hospital where many more tests were conducted and he began an anti-biotic treatment. Throughout the entire ordeal I continued with the transference of energy and guided imagery using the Mirror of the Mind technique - Mel did so as well. The test results showed that he had bacteria in the blood that had led to endocarditis - infection of the heart - That was so hard to phantom! The greatest concern was that Mel - who uses a pace maker due to very healthy yet slow heart - would have problems with the pace maker in the event that bacteria would contaminate the pace maker. That in itself would greatly complicate matters. Lo and behold, Mel began to make such rapid progress that the doctors were stunned and called his rapid recovery "bizarre!" In addition, ~~they~~ in later tests, the doctor could not find any evidence of bacteria in any area of his heart. - Amazing!
