Ideas for Using Outreach Canada's Community Profile

Knowing as much information as possible about the make-up of those living in the neighbourhood surrounding your church does not, of course, guarantee an increase in worship attendance. It is however, an important step in better understanding the needs of the people in your community. This information may lead you to adjust your programs or plant a new church in order to meet the needs of people you currently are not able to meet through existing programming.

Whether your church has been in existence for 50 years or is in its first year, the information contained within these pages will provide you with tremendous insight into the people living in the neighbourhood. With reflection and prayer this information will help your church identify new ways to impact your community. Prayerfully consider how this information will help your church become the lighthouse in a lost and confused world.

The following are suggested ways to help you interact with and effectively use the information presented in this report. The list below is in no particular order. Keep in mind that there is no magic formula. If you would like further direction or references to additional resources please feel free to contact us at Outreach Canada.

1. Read through the entire report carefully and take note of anything that jumps out at you.
2. Make a comparison of the demographic make-up of the community with the demographic make-up of those who attend your church.
3. Conduct a program inventory to help evaluate existing ministries within the church.
4. List the existing ministries of the church and identify who these ministries are currently reaching and which group(s) of people are not being reached.
5. Plot on a map where members and regular attendees live.
6. Pray. Ask God for wisdom as you begin to brainstorm ways to connect with the community surrounding the church.
7. Present findings to the leadership of the church and get their input.
8. Present findings to the congregation to keep them informed and aware of possibilities and developments.
9. On a street map, identify the location of schools, recreational facilities, new residential developments since the 2006 census (May 2006) and places of worship.
10. Compare the information for your community to the Canadian national data available on the Statistics Canada website, www.statcan.ca.
11. Contact the local municipal officials and ask for their official community plans. Check with the Planning department for a free copy. You might even want to make an appointment to talk with an official planner.
12. Conduct a survey of the community to better understand people's needs and attitudes toward the church.

On the next couple pages are samples that will help you work through some of the suggestions above.

Attitudes of the Community

It is not enough just to know facts about community but also how the community thinks and feels. For example, is there something that has caused a negative image toward the church that you need to be aware of? If you remain oblivious to it then a campaign to invite community people to the church will be hindered.

Sometimes it helps to hear people's attitudes toward God or the Bible. Actually, most times we are surprised at the receptiveness people show when we expect hostility. It is important to hear how people in your community are hurting or are open to knowing more about God.

Community Survey

The following survey is designed to test receptivity to the gospel, attitudes toward the church, and offers possible side-door ministries that the church could do. The survey needs to be modified to offer realistic possibilities for your individual church. They do not have to be actual things you are doing now but what your church could do if you had enough response from the community. In fact, you could use this survey as the grounds for going to the community with a particular program. Adapt this to fit any program you may be considering, such as a preschool, day care, after school program, food bank, parenting classes, etc.

This sample provides an opening to invite people to a Bible study or church program, or even to share the gospel. If you need a survey that solely tests attitudes then you will need to omit question # 8. A question to ask if you sense that there could be negative feelings toward the church would be: "If you could tell the pastor of our church anything that you wanted, what would you say?" Again, if you know your objectives you can modify your questions to obtain that needed information.

Field Test

Before implementing a full survey, field test your questionnaire for potential problems people have in answering. Is there any question respondents do not understand? Are their answers leading you to the needed information or should you ask a follow-up question? For a community survey, a minimum of ten trial interviews is necessary to detect problems.

Train Interviewers

Be sure to train those conducting the survey to obtain uniform and accurate results. How do you complete the survey? How do you greet people at the door to create a greater willingness to respond? What do you do if they show interest in the church? How should you share the gospel if they ask? Should you try to direct the conversation to a gospel presentation or just obtain the requested information?

Suggested recommendations for the actual polling process:

1. Be sure each survey has a section number of the community (divide the community into various homogeneous sections), address, and researcher's name or initials.

2. Greet people with a smile and a planned opening: "Hi. My name is _____ and I'm conducting a survey in the community for our church (give name). I am wondering if you would be so kind as to give me five minutes to answer these questions which can help us develop a better service to our community."

3. Have a copy of the survey to put into their hands at this point. This lets them see the questions to facilitate their thinking as well as disarm their fears that this is really some kind of promotion or proselytizing.

4. Instruct the researchers that the survey has great value in understanding the community even if there is no interest in church programs or the gospel.

5. Do not see the main purpose of this as a witnessing tool but as an information-gathering tool. If interest is shown in the gospel, be prepared how to answer.

6. If information is desired, follow-up or give a brochure of the church. Do not leave literature unless they request it, otherwise they will question the motive of your survey.

7. Always thank people for their assistance and be as brief and respectful of their time as possible.

8. Expect some people to refuse to answer. They are not mad at you or God, but suspicious of solicitors.
