

Subject: Hunt Horse Complex Construction

Construction season is upon us, and we'd like to make you aware of what that means at the Hunt Horse Complex.

NCDOT has closed off part of Trinity Road to start work on the highly anticipated tunnel that will lead from the stadium and NCSU sports complex to the fairgrounds. Trinity will be closed between Gate 9 of the fairgrounds and Youth Center Road. Youth Center Road is to remain open. The most direct route when driving to the horse complex will be to use the Edwards Mill exit, head south on Edwards Mill and then turn left (heading east) on Trinity. There is a sign at the corner of Edwards Mill and Trinity that states no through traffic, but the road is open to the horse complex. Taking another exit may necessitate a trip around the entire fairgrounds in order to get to the horse complex. We don't have an exact timeframe as to when that section will reopen, but plan on it being closed through most or all of the summer.

In addition, the front ring closest to Youth Center Road, sometimes used as the trail ring, will be unavailable until further notice due to the tunnel and right of way work. Unfortunately, this is out of our control as this is a Department of Transportation project. We apologize for the inconvenience and we will try to keep you posted of any further changes.
