

Musical acts boast global appeal

LEWISBURG — “GlobalFEST on the Road: The New Golden Age of Latin Music” will come to the Weis Center for the Performing Arts Saturday, Feb. 3, at 7:30 p.m.

It features two Latin bands, Las Cafeteras and Orkesta Mendoza.

The six-piece Las Cafeteras began as a group of students at Eastside Cafe, a community space in East Los Angeles, where they learned to play son jarocho, a traditional music style from Veracruz, a state in the Gulf of Mexico.

Orkesta Mendoza, founded by singer and guitarist Sergio Mendoza in 2009, is a sextet that plays a combination of mambo, cumbia, psychedelia and rock. The Orkestra’s music, arranged to suggest a big band with a touch of lo-fi electronics, speaks of a borderless world in which U.S. culture and Latin traditions come together.

GlobalFEST on the Road is described by a press release as “a flexible touring and curating concept based on GlobalFEST’s annual flagship festival in New York City, a one-day event that showcases a dizzying range of musicians from around the globe.”

Tickets can be purchased online at Bucknell.edu/Box-Office or by calling 570-577-1000.

Special to Press Enterprise

ORKESTA MENDOZA is slated as part of the Feb. 3 event, “GlobalFEST on the Road: The New Golden Age of Latin Music.” It’s being hosted at the Weis Center for the Performing Arts.

