Preseason Gear and Apparel Checklist

I recently read a very good article in Referee Magazine's September 2011 issue titled 72 Ways to Officiate Smarter.

Their editors gathered ideas and tips to better officiating, in all sports, on various subjects, including six tips on the subject of inventory and equipment.

Elaborating on their tip #7, here's my suggested checklist of pre-season dos and don'ts:

Good stewardship of your gear happens after every game and not just during the off-season. Wipe off dirt, dust and moisture after each game so your gear and accessories will last longer. Don't forget to wipe off excess dust and dirt from washable items, too (especially pants) before placing in the washing machine.

Store a dry towel in your gear bag. It's perfect for quick clean-ups. You don't want to risk rust forming on steel chest protector rivets or leg guard clips. Shin guards are the biggest culprit for dust and dirt, but the inside of ALL umpire gear is susceptible to moisture from perspiration.

Note that some umpire gear now has removable inner padding that can be washed in a washing machine; a great feature for maintaining your gear.

Don't store your gear and apparel in a hot car or a humid place such as a garage. Extreme heat and moisture can be harmful to clothing as well as protective gear.

Don't leave your gear or clothes in the sun where UV rays can fade fabrics or change them to an undesired color. Pink umpire shirts are in style, but pink pants? Not so much.

Try your pants on. Can't bring the clasps together because you ate too much over the holidays? Pants on the ground because you were motivated by the latest weight-loss craze? No fear, just Google "local tailor" or pony up and buy a new pair.

Take a good look at your shoes. Consider a professional shoe shine or DIY. Replace shoelaces, if needed. You don't want to tighten a shoelace and have it snap just before your first game. Best advice from veteran officials is to carry a spare pair of shoelaces in your bag just in case.

Check your shin guard straps. Worn out straps can be replaced with fairly inexpensive new ones ($1.20) if needed.

Examine your mask or helmet padding. Protective properties can wane over time as wear and perspiration break down the materials inside your mask padding. If you can't remember when you bought your mask, it probably time to buy a new set.

Clean up. If you find that something gear-wise needs a good cleaning, mild soap and water does the trick for most things. Washing your cap in the dishwasher or washing machine with a cap cage will also work.

Check your clothing for loose buttons and threads and seek out a repair if necessary.

We are proud to offer a new way for you to show your support and raise awareness of prostate cancer among your fellow umpires, with embroidered blue wristbands, featuring the Stay in the Game® logo.

100% of the proceeds from each Stay in the Game® wristband go to the Prostate Cancer Foundation, the world's largest philanthropic source of support for prostate cancer research.

Stay In The Game

Did you know that prostate cancer detected in its earliest stages can be effectively treated? In addition to showing your support on the field or on the court, you'll want to discuss your level of risk of developing prostate cancer with your doctor to determine whether regular prostate screening is right for you.

Starting at age 40, guidelines suggest an initial PSA and DRE* screening, but all decisions about screening should be individualized based on your level of risk, your family health history, and your life expectancy.

Not everyone experiences symptoms of prostate cancer, but if you experience any changes in urinary or sexual function, consult with your doctor right away.

Find Out More

Visit ump-attire.com/stayinthegame and find Stay in the Game on Facebook to find out more about prostate cancer risks and prevention, or to share your story.

**PSA is a protein produced by the prostate that can be measured in a blood test and used to detect prostate cancer. DRE is a Digital Rectal Exam during which your doctor examines your prostate for irregularities in size, shape, and texture.*
