

Weber Genesis Gas Barbecue.

When developing the new Genesis gas barbecue at our factory, a bloke in marketing nick-named it ‘the barbecue in tails’.

We reckon he had it pretty right, because at Weber, we’ve never made a classier looking barbecue than this. When R & D came up with the idea to use stainless steel studs in the construction of the barbecue we thought they were crazy. How wrong can you be?

Amongst our staff at Weber New Zealand the new Genesis barbecue is undoubtedly the favourite. And it’s not the stainless steel studs. It’s the cooking. Yes it’s the cooking that’s won us all over. And it’s the cooking that makes this barbecue, with its front to back stainless steel burners, a real stand-out. It’s just a magic cooker! It’s the right size barbecue and

*I have had a Weber for ages and all my family and friends now have them. I have always believed you guys are the Rolls Royce of BBQs and you have enhanced this feeling by your service. Keep up the good work it’s full of style and class.

The Genesis E-330

A large three burner barbecue with side burner and sear station. Searing a steak over the high heat on the new sear station caramelizes the outside of the meat, creating a juicy and flavoursome restaurant quality steak. Available in gleaming black porcelain enamel with stainless steel trim.
