Portico Collection Electric Grill
810-9050-S

The Portico is available in charcoal, electric, and gas. The charcoal unit comes with vents to regulate heat and smoke, and an adjustable charcoal rack to raise or lower the flame. The 2 burner gas unit comes with two stainless steel main burners with 24,000 BTU's total and an electronic ignition for a quick start every time. The electric unit fires up with ease - just plug it in, and the 1750 watt electric heating element takes over. The only difficult decision in purchasing a from from the Portico Collection is deciding which one to take home with you.

PORTABLE TAILGATE 4 BURNER GAS GRILL
810-9490-0

The 496 square inch primary cooking area is powered by four stainless steel main burners totaling 48,000 BTUs of grilling power. With the Portable Tailgate unit, there's no more fumbling with matches, just use the electronic ignition to fire up the main burners and heat up the porcelain coated heavy-gauge wire cooking grates. The unit includes a stainless steel griddle accessory with a total cooking area of 245 square inches.

GREEN + CLEAN

Go Green with the Brinkmann Pellet Grill. Not only is this unit environmentally friendly, but it's clean and simple to use. It's a great unit for grilling, smoking, baking, and roasting.

PELLET SMOKER & GRILL
810-3090-0

The motorized auger mounted on the left side of the unit is temperature controlled and works with any household outlet. Simply open the top, pour in the pellets, and turn on the unit. At startup, the electric element in the burn chamber heats up igniting the pellets and starting the grill. The motorized auger feeds pellets into the burn chamber at the center of the grill, where they burn at remarkably hot temperatures. The Pellet Grill can heat up to 500 degrees and act as both a smoker and grill. The blower motor circulates air inside the grill and distributes the heat to cook your spread.

One of the most popular features of this unit is it is clean for the environment and clean after cooking. The built-in grease tray inside the hood is angled, allowing grease from your meats to discharge conveniently into a bucket on the side of the unit, for an easy cleanup process. There is no heavy propane tank to lug around or messy charcoal and ash cleanup. The pellets burn so efficiently that there is little to no ash left over from the cooking process. The pellets are composed of recycled scraps from hardwoods, and they are reduced to saw dust and compressed into small pellets using no glues or binders. The result is a hot burning, environmentally friendly, and recyclable fuel source. As a result, your dinner will be more enjoyable and better tasting.

The Pellet Grill has a total cooking area of 443 square inches and is constructed of heavy-gauge steel with a hinged lid. Additional features include porcelain-coated cooking grates, a convenient shelf for keeping utensils within reach, a large bottom shelf for storage, and a built-in temperature gauge.

Like nothing you have ever seen before, the Vertex Sear is the most advanced grill on the market in 2012. With cutting edge design and advanced functionality the Vertex is sure to become the conversation piece of any backyard party.

With a total cooking area of 800 square inches and dynamic design and innovation, the Vertex is packed with features.

The Vertex comes with two separate grilling chambers. The left chamber contains 4 stainless steel main burners with a total of 40,000 BTUs and an integrated rotisserie system.

The right chamber boasts a bottom row of 2 stainless steel main burners with 10,000 BTUs total and a 10,000 BTU restaurant style top sear burner, built into the hood.

Both chambers are equipped with cast iron cooking grates designed to capture flavor and to be cleaned with ease, oversized and easy to read temperature gauges, grill lights built into the lid handles, and electronic ignition ensuring a quick start every time.

With the Vertex Sear you no longer have to guess if you are running low on fuel, the vertex has a built in fuel gauge; which lets you know when it's time to swap tanks. Avoid the awkward race to the store to grab a tank in the middle of your bbq while the meat sits idle on the grill. Get the Vertex and grill with peace of mind.

The features keep coming with a pull-out trash can, foldable side table, slide-out table lid allowing for prep space, and a 12,000 BTU side burner.

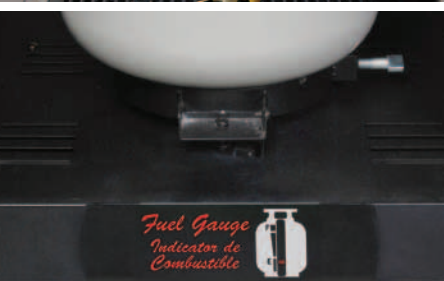

The Vertex packs a power punch of grilling innovation and sleek design, which transforms any backyard space.
