Episode 060: Where to Start with Church Video Production with Matt Fridg

Show Outline

Teaser:

The Church Media Podcast. Episode 60: Where to Start with Video Production with Matt Fridg. Let's do it.

Introduction:

Hey guys. Welcome to the Church Media Podcast. Thanks for hanging out this week. We want to provide resources and training to your team to execute amazing experiences each and every Sunday where people encounter Jesus and grow in their faith journey. Our team is praying for you and if there is anything we can do for you, don't hesitate to drop me a line at carl@twelvethirtymedia.com - that's the word twelve the word thirty the word media - twelvethirtymedia.com

On today's episode, I welcome Matt Fridg. Matt is a professional filmmaker, cinematographer and director. He has produced content for such clients as the Discovery Channel, the NFL, GNC, The Pittsburgh Pirates and more. We spent some time talking about where to begin in video production. He gave some very practical tips about what kind of gear to purchase, some steps for working with green video volunteers and more. We are actually going to split my interview with Matt up into two parts that will air this week and next. We also talked about where to find great creative inspiration - we'll save that portion of the interview for next week. We'll lay down part one of my exclusive interview with Matt in just a bit.

But first, your Church Media Resource of the Week.
