Mar 29, 2020 NO LONGER WORKING! Before we remove them, check them out here: . Nov 1, 2019 The file is a symbolic link to a subdirectory in the same folder in which it was created. We have a special folder on our servers for the embedded videos that we host. It's called "VIDEOS" (not a typo!). The videos are usually made available to us through YouTube, and it's the most practical approach because it puts the videos in the same folder as the mp3. So if you ever need to download the video, it's much easier just to drag and drop the.mp3 from that folder into your mp3 player. The "VIDEO" folder gets updated automatically, so you don't have to worry about keeping it up-to-date. Also, if you want to put videos in a folder of their own, just put them in your "USER\VIDEOS" folder. You can also right-click and "Send to" to another location. The same will apply for other tools that you might have downloaded. You can right-click on the link and go to another location to put them in. Just one more note about the users folder: It's not the same as your "My Documents" folder. It's just a plain old folder. That being said, to copy your user's folder: Start a "Windows Explorer". Right-click on "Computer" or "My Computer" and select "Properties". Click on the "Settings" tab. Select the "Advanced" tab. Click on the "Users" button. In the "Folder" box, click on the "Browse" button. In the "Folder" box, type in "Users". Click on the "OK" button. Click on the "Apply" button. Now, you can see your "My Documents" folder and "Users" folder. You may see a message like this: There is some content in this folder that is not visible or is not available. What it means is that you have at least one file in your "Users" folder that is just a link to a different folder. You can delete this link by right-clicking and selecting "Cut Link". This will remove it from your "Users" folder and make it show up normally on your desktop.
