

Lady Tiger Basketball

We will know that we have come together as a team when...

- We don't care if we are the one who sets the screen or the one who hits the winning three, because fulfilling our role, whatever the role is, is most important.
- We have a desire to excel for the benefit of those relying on us.
- We have an unquenchable thirst to exceed past our limitations.
- We play without the option of defects.
- We play and know, without a shadow of doubt that we competed like champions.
- We understand our commitment to our teammates.
- We understand that basketball is a team sport, and without a team effort we will fall short of our potential.
- We finish playing and only our bodies leave the floor – our hearts and souls are captured within the game.
- We will exchange blood, sweat, and tears for the benefit of the team.
- We understand the irrelevance of individual awards.
- We would rather encourage a teammate to succeed than benefit personally from her mistakes.
- We hold a respect for the game that outweighs our personal pride.
- We make mistakes and use them to improve instead of using them as excuses.
- We have the ability to make our teammates better each time we play.
- We do the little things right when nobody is watching.
- We serve our teammates with unselfish motives.
- We understand our role and strive to perform it better.
- We have done all we can and still feel as though we have not done enough.
- We play with pain without the pain showing through our demeanor.
- We give more than what is asked and take less than what is deserved.
- We have an effort that is constant and our play is consistent regardless of the situation.
- We think we can and we do.
