

Master Tranquility

Transitional bathrooms blend traditional pieces with contemporary elements to create an elegant and charming space. Many bathrooms need a remodel after a few years and the designer chose components that would last both stylistically and functionally. The slanted ceilings are reminiscent of an upper-level remodel or even a bathroom addition to the attic.

Coordinating the tile, sink, and wallpaper, the designer tried to keep the colors and shapes both monochromatic and soothing to be able to accessorize with brighter colors like the pink orchid on the counter. The cabinets and drawers complete the soothing theme with the soft-close feature. Gray is still wildly popular right now and we made sure that our Gray Mist and Willow finishes accented the Preston door style in Medium Density Fiberboard (MDF) perfectly.

The Gray Mist Vanity is accented with a Flush Cabinet End, Base End Panels, and two turned legs. On the front, matching legs are placed to balance the area and fill space between the cabinets.

The Gray Mist vanity is packed with organizational tools. Below the beautiful vessel sink, a Vanity Wastebasket is attached to the inside of the cabinet door to hide what would normally be an exposed trash can. To the right of that, the three drawers are outfitted with our solid wood dividers to make storing accessories and other bathroom supplies easier. The top is a shallow divider that is normally used in the kitchen as a cutlery tray; however, it has found new life in our bathroom by storing health and beauty supplies. The bottom two drawers are deeper for storing larger items. These dividers are trimmable and can be removed to accommodate virtually any toiletry item based on the size of the accessory.

Large Cove Moulding and Small Wainscot Cap Moulding is used to top the mirror. To provide continuity, Small Wainscot Cap Moulding was also used for the base of the mirror. Using our moulding, you can create any size mirror you need for a master bath or a guest bath.

REFLECTIVE MODERN IS THE NEW TRADITIONAL

The Preston door style is continued to the right side in a complementary gray Willow finish. Stylish modern chrome-colored hardware was chosen to merge the old to the new in this space. Soft-close doors and drawers provide quiet closure and further the life of the cabinetry. Deep cabinets provide plenty of space for storage in the corner area. Having a space to display and store sentimental items was important so a bookcase was included with matching shelves. LED Strip Lighting was installed to complete the bookcase. Flush cabinet ends, applied doors, and a matching vanity end panel complete the side and corner unit.

Finishing off the space, the beautiful vessel sink and vanity are both trending and elegant. Tradition meets transition in this bathroom. Using grays on the cabinets, matching patterns in the tile and wallpaper, and chrome accents; it truly looks like a relaxing yet functional retreat.
