

First Baby of the New Year Born at Westfields Hospital

January 3, 2012— Westfields Hospital celebrates the birth of the first baby at the hospital in the New Year. She is Olivia Gruber, the first child for mother Patsy Pflueger, and father Nathan Gruber. Olivia officially entered the world on Wednesday, Jan. 3 at 7:15 a.m., a mere three days into the New Year.

Olivia weighs in at 6 pounds 2 ounces and is 19 and 3/4 inches long. Her due date was January 20 so her parents were quite surprised when she decided to come a bit earlier. Olivia is given her middle name, Gale, after her father's grandfather.

Patsy says her baby girl is “beautiful, and quite the talker”. Nathan says his little girl “definitely has a good grip”. Although in shock when they first held her, the delighted parents say they are ready to bring her home. Olivia received a gift basket from the OB department, and a hand crafted quilt from the Willow River Piecemakers Quilt Guild in celebration of her “first baby of 2012” status.
