Rest and Ready to Grow
One of the best ways to raise healthy kids is to make sure they—and you—get enough sleep. A healthy family depends on it.

KEY HEALTHY HABITS

- The More the Better
  Based on their ages, children need different amounts of sleep. Doctors recommend between 10 and 12 hours per day for kids between the ages of 5 and 12. When children do not get enough sleep it can cause moodiness and impact their ability to learn in school. Additionally, recent studies have found links between sleep and obesity in children. It may seem strange, but the more hours that kids sleep the less likely they are to become obese.

- Make Rest Your Priority Too
  Restful sleep also has important short- and long-term health benefits for adults, including a role in maintaining our healthy immune system, metabolism, mood, memory, learning, and other vital functions. Researchers are also beginning to point towards the benefits of sleep for the prevention of heart disease and other chronic conditions. Doctors recommend seven to eight hours per night.

FAMILY GOAL EXAMPLES

Try getting the family together to select one of the following goals or come up with your own. To begin, go for something that is realistic and achievable. In one week, get back together to see how you did and what you learned. Take into account this week’s experience, set another goal and keep going. You can do it!

1. This week, I will read one bedtime story to my child each night.
2. This week, we will turn off the TV one hour before bedtime.
3. Three times this week, the adults will be in bed before _____ p.m.
4. Three times this week, the kids will be in bed before _____ p.m.
5. Each day this week, I will not have any caffeine after _____ p.m.
