A happy heart

Proverbs 15:13 teaches that what is in our heart often shows on our face.

The verse explains that a joyful heart makes a cheerful face, while a sorrowful heart can make the spirit feel crushed. This reminds us that our emotions and attitudes inside of us affect how we look and act on the outside. God designed our faces to reflect what is happening in our hearts, whether it is happiness, sadness, kindness, or anger. Because of this, the condition of our heart is very important. When our hearts are filled with joy, gratitude, and trust in God, it naturally shows through our expressions and the way we treat others.

A bookcase & some books

We're doing a mission project this month for the Sick's church, One Voice Fellowship. Naomi Sicks has hooked me up with a woman from their women's council, Mae Klinger, who suggested that we get them a bookcase & some books for the children. Can you bring some money in for this endeavor? We'll pray that God will bless it. We'll do this until the end of Kids Club in April.
