5 Questions you need answered before marriage!

25 POINT CHECKLIST

Hi!

This is Troy Beans.

Congratulations on downloading the 25-point checklist.

As you check the boxes from the following statements, make sure you are honest with yourself. The only right answer is the answer you feel in your heart.

Don't answer for someone else and don't check the box you think you should.

I look forward to hearing about your success!

You have a wonderful Day!

Troy :-)

5 Questions you need answered before marriage

How to Score: Add up all the boxes you checked.

Total _____

Very Strong 22-25:

You are comfortable with yourself. You look to provide for the needs of your partner but are not afraid to ask for what you need. You both listen to each other and like your growing friendship. Commitment feels good. You genuinely like your partner, know what they want in the future and feel respected by them. The Romance is exciting, respectful and leaves you wanting more! You feel a great amount of 'Freedom' to love and be loved. You value their opinion. You both respect and protect each other's heart and soul.

Good 17-21:

You question your own decisions at times. Your friendship is good but not as strong as you would like it to be. You think they respect you and you respect them most of the time. You really like being with them and you are seldom bored. They seem to have great ideas and you think you are on the same page. You feel good about many things but you do have some questions.

5 Questions you need answered before marriage

Neutral 12-16:

You are still getting to know your partner or you are starting to wonder why you are still together. What you do know you like or you are really starting to have some doubts. Our friendship is growing or it seems to be fading. The initial warm fuzzy feelings have been great or maybe it has been awhile since I felt much. You are starting to feel like you can trust them or in some ways you don't trust them very much at all. You are not sure how compatible you are with spiritual things.

Learning 0-11:

This is a very new relationship, or a relationship that is just hanging on and really needs some work or a relationship that has a comfort zone that does not allow for much questioning. You are choosing to be blind and ignorant of what the relationship could be or you know it's a bad idea but refuse to let it go. You can use this checklist to see how you progress in the future or you can use it to be honest with yourself and make a genuine effort to rebuild the relationship or say goodbye.
