NEW HORIZONS NEWSLETTER – SEPTEMBER 2018

NOTE FROM JERI

You may miss the "real you", that person you were before you started to grieve. Don't worry...that person is still there. You will return to a more caring, compassionate version of yourself on the other end of the grief process. You probably only see the beauty in the world in little flashes right now. Treasure those moments. They represent hope and healing, and will only grow over time.
