  When a loved one has died and the service is over, a family's world can be turned upside down with an overwhelming amount of paperwork in the midst of grief. At Billings Funeral Home, family follow up counselor, Julie Thompson, will call you as soon as the death certificates are available, to set a time to meet, deliver the death certificates, and begin to help settle the affairs of the deceased. During the family follow up visit, Julie will provide a checklist of tasks that might need to be accomplished to settle the estate including information on insurance, titles, finances, and Social Security and military benefits. Julie will also provide information on how to cope with grief with specific guidance on losing a spouse, parent, sibling, or child as well as how to help children who are grieving. At Billings, we feel it is important to provide this personalized care after the service.

- Preplanning…….NO CHARGE

  Today, people are finding the benefits and importance of preplanning for three basic reasons.
  You can express your personal wishes; you will relieve the emotional and the financial burden from your family and loved ones. Our Family Service Advisor, Jeremy Sarber, will meet with you at your convenience, either here at the funeral home or in the comfort of your own home.
