Our History

Charles Oscar Pate, better known as C.O. Pate was born on July 24, 1895 in Yalobusha County, Mississippi to Rev. Henry Benjamin and Mrs. Elizabeth Schmitz Pate.

C.O. Pate grew up in Water Valley, Mississippi. He worked various jobs around Yalobusha and Tallahatchie counties before World War I.

Rev. H. B. Pate,
Water Valley, Miss.

Dear Parents:

I shall try to tell you just how much I love you and also just what I am doing at the present time.

Regarding the first subject I will say that I love you just as much as is possible for a man to love his parents and am trying to be worthy of my own dear sweet parents. Now I shall conclude this message and write on my next subject—my work.

I am Divisional Secretary in charge of the Rolling Canteen in this area. I have a new car, a chauffeur or driver and two young ladies who go with me. My office of course is at Division Headquarters at Cassurre. In the next building I have a wonderful kitchen where my two "Y" girls make cakes and chocolate to drink. In the afternoons we drive out in my car and serve cakes and chocolate to the boys, after which I give lectures. We have a folding organ that we take along and believe me, I am doing my best to put the job over—pray for me.

Mother write me, also father and tell me all of the news and write to all the kids for me. Will see you in August.

Your son,
CHARLES O. PATE,

March 27th, 1919.

Mrs. Eliza F. Pate,
Water Valley, Miss.

My dear Mrs. Pate:

By this time, you have no doubt learned that your son, Mr. Charles O. Pate, has been discharged from the Army and enlisted in the service of the Y. M. C. A. February 21st, 1919.

At his request, we are sending you a copy of an order to pay on our New York office, showing that he has directed us to pay you $25.00 per month beginning February 21st, 1919. We have instructed our Treasurer to forward you check and within a few days you will no doubt receive the amount due from February 21st to March 1st, as a first payment.

The Association is indeed fortunate to have secured the services of a man like your son. His knowledge of men derived from his experiences in the Army will make his services doubly valuable to us.

Very truly yours,
C. V. HIBBARD, Sect'y.

With America's entry into World War I, C.O. Pate enlisted in the military. His reasons for enlisting were quoted in The Tallahatchie Herald - September 5, 1917 edition as "because I have faith in God and believe in fighting for my country".

Charles Oscar Pate - World War I

After returning home from overseas, C.O. Pate moved to Senatobia, Mississippi where he worked as a dry goods salesman. He eventually began working for Mr. W.T. Bailey's Lumber Company. During this time, C.O. Pate met Miss Mary Overton Bailey, the daughter of Mr. Bailey. The two were married on February 25, 1920 at the Senatobia Methodist Church.

PATE-BAILEY.

A wedding of much interest, which occurred at Senatobia, Miss., Wednesday evening, was that of Miss Mary Overton Bailey to Mr. Charles Oscar Pate, the ceremony having taken place at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Bailey.

Preceding the ceremony a programme of nuptial music was rendered by Miss Elsie Williams, pianist, and Misses Martha Garrett and Sadie Stowers, soloists. Mr. Keith Blanton of this city also sang.

The bride was gowned in a robe of white charmeuse satin with touches of Chantilly lace, with a veil of lace and tulle; She carried a shower bouquet of Bride's roses and Valley lilies.

She was attended by Miss Jean Brinkley, who served as maid of honor.

Mr. C. L. McNeil served as best man for the bridegroom, and Master Billy Bailey, a brother of the bride, was the ring bearer.

The impressive double ring ceremony was read by the Rev. A. T. McIlwain.

Among the out-of-town guests who attended the wedding were: Mr. and Mrs. Pate, Mrs. E. O. Bailey, Miss Oliver and Mr. Keith Blanton from Memphis, and Mr. Hubbard Brinkley and Miss Jean Brinkley of Michigan City, Miss.

Charles Oscar and Mary had two daughters,
Martha Elizabeth and Marijean.

In May 1928, C.O. Pate bought the interests of Mr. J.W. Caldwell in the Caldwell and McCormick Funeral Home.

With this purchase, the Pate and McCormick Funeral Home was established. Mr. Raymond McCormick remained in the business as a silent partner and Mr. Pate became the Director in charge. The funeral home was located on Front Street in Senatobia, Mississippi.

Article from the Tate County Democrat - Thursday, May 17, 1928.

The first advertisement for the newly established Pate and McCormick Funeral Home was published in the May 24, 1928 edition of the Tate County Democrat.

Front Street Location

In 1935, C.O. Pate began construction on a new location of the Pate and McCormick Funeral Home on Gilmore Street in Senatobia. It was described as “one of the most commodious funeral homes in North Mississippi.”

One of the most commodious funeral homes in North Mississippi has just been built by C. O. Pate for Pate and McCormick. A two-story clapboard structure, it provides on the second floor a comfortable three-room apartment for the embalmer, Carl C. Womble, and wife, while on the lower floor are the living and reception room, preparation room, with complete hydraulic equipment, a chapel 40 by 16 feet in size, with hardwood block flooring finished in combination colors of dark and medium oak.

Showroom

There is also a showroom 12 by 40 feet in size, which opens into the chapel, and has the individual lighting effect. The draperies and upholstery on the chairs are in blue and the building is fitted with Austrian shades. It is equipped with automatic oil heating and the chapel has a seating capacity of 150 persons.

Gilmore Street Location

In March 1936, C.O. Pate bought out Mr. S.D. Wooten's undertaking business in Coldwater, Mississippi establishing the C.O. Pate Funeral Home in Coldwater.

MORTICIANS TO BUILD MODERN STRUCTURE

Other Expansion Work Is Planned At Coldwater

COLDWATER, Miss., March 14.—C. O. Pate, of the McCormick-Pate Funeral Directors, Senatobia, has bought the undertaking business of S. D. Wooten here and has announced plans for expansion.

Purchasing the lot next to the firm's present site, Mr. Pate said he will build a modern funeral home and will add ambulance service. Business of the Long Burial Association will also be handled by the company.

Mrs. Alpha McCain has bought the lot north of the Methodist Church and is preparing to build an 11-room brick veneered bungalow divided into two apartments.

About 40 men are being given employment on the state health department's drainage project here. Under supervision of John Moore Callicott, a canal designed to free the town of surface water is being built. This is expected to eliminate the mosquito menace to a large extent.

Coldwater Location

In July 1938, C.O. Pate and Mrs. Ramelle V. Eason, went into a partnership together to form Hernando Funeral Home.

C. O. Pate Becomes Director of New Funeral Home

Mr. C. O. Pate, director of the Pate and McCormick Funeral Home, Senatobia and the C. O. Pate Funeral Home, Coldwater, has become associated with Mrs. S. W. Eason in the direction of the Hernando Funeral Home at Hernando.

Mr. Pate states that ground has already been broken for the construction of a new modern funeral home in the DeSoto County town. The organization has received shipment of a new LaSalle Superior built ambulance which will be used with the other equipment in Senatobia, Coldwater and Hernando.

A CHAPLAIN'S VIEW

To The Commercial Appeal:

I am thinking tonight as I sit at my field desk, somewhere in Louisiana, if the people of this great country of ours, making up our civilian population, could see and know the officers and men as they are facing their tasks daily and nightly as I see and know them, just what the reaction would be.

I have read and heard so much criticism and propaganda until sometimes I wonder if we, the people of America, will ever awake to the fact that we are doing the very thing Hitler and his coworkers are planning for us to do. If the papers are true, Hitler's greatest weapon is creating discord in the ranks of the civilians and the Army and Navy of the countries he wishes to conquer.

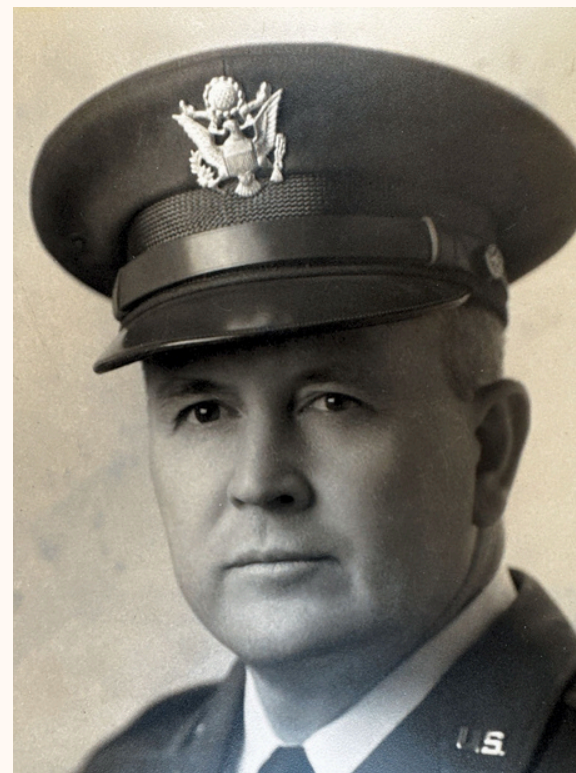

America, who has made for herself a place in the world that will go down in history as great, made it because those who we are proud to call our ancestors carried a Bible in their pockets, an ax in one hand, a rifle in the other, a prayer on their lips, and the courage based on faith in our Heavenly Father in their hearts. Today I wonder if those leaders, in whatever field of service they may be, who declare with all of their speaking and writing ability the gospel of pacifism, claiming in many cases to base their argument on Christ, have ever read this Scripture, "I came not to bring peace, but a sword."

Do not get me wrong; I am not a person who believes in war or fighting, but a man who would allow his wife, daughters, mother, sisters or country to be humiliated and disgraced does not, I fear, remember sacred history where we find our Father leading and directing Gideon, David and many others in battle against the oppressor, and in Revelation find war and rumors of war until the Son of God, Himself, comes in all His glory to judge in the final judgment. Not until then will it ever be the lot of mortal man to enjoy permanent peace, and not until then will a Christian be able to lay his burden of fighting the devil, either personal or otherwise, down.

My appeal to you today as Americans is that we dedicate our lives upon the altar of service to our country and our Father who art in Heaven.

CHARLES O. PATE,
Regimental Chaplain Captain,
Ragley, La.

In 1940, C.O. Pate was called to serve his country again in the Second World War.

CHAPLAIN IN ARMY HAS MANY DUTIES

Camp Blanding, Fla., June 11—Interested in boosting the morale of men of his regiment, Captain Charles O. Pate, chaplain of the 106th Quartermaster Regiment, is constantly at work devising plans to assist the men in their social and spiritual life.

Among other duties Chaplain Pate is assisting the recreation officer and the publicity officer in their work.

The duties of Captain Pate are many and all of his time is spent for the good of the enlisted men. He has taken them on trips to places of interest in Florida. Every day he goes to the station hospital and visits with members of this regiment. He is willing to assist in anyway that he can and the men go to him with all their problems whether they be domestic, Army or religious, and find him more than willing to be of assistance.

Chaplin Pate holds services on Sunday morning and on Sunday night has Sunday School. Wednesday night there is prayer meeting and mass singing.

All special days, like Mother's Day, Easter Sunday, etc., programs have been specially planned and many have stated that the recreation hall was decorated as fine on these occasions as their churches at home.

Pate does double-duty

One war record is service enough to one's country, most people would think. But C.O. Pate disagrees. The owner of a local insurance agency and funeral home, Pate served in both World War I and World War II.

Previous to his war service, Pate had been active in the ministry. As a young man he enlisted in the Army as a volunteer. Never ranking higher than a private, he was appointed boxing instructor of the 140th Field Artillery. He still remembers how he earned the job.

At a YMCA meeting in a tent at Camp Beauregard, La., World Welter Weight Champion Willie Richie had just knocked out a boxer in five rounds. People were going wild when a soldier climbed into the ring. Pate described the scene:

"He stuck his fingers in his shirt and said he'd whip anybody in the house just like Willie Richie just did. I looked around and nobody didn't get up. I hadn't been whipped in high school or anything. So, anyway, I decided I'd go up there. I pulled my shirt off, went up there and told the Y-man to put the gloves on me. He says "Son, don't put the gloves on with this man, you're just a youngster." He was a professional who had been fighting 10 years or so... I knocked him out."

Following the match, Pate won 16 consecutive bouts, won the YMCA tournament, and received the job of boxing instructor.

"Athletics is a very important part of the Army," Pate said. "If your men aren't able to take care of themselves, they're not worth a dime as soldiers," he explained as the reason for the boxing lessons.

All of this action didn't take place in training camp. Pate's company had been transported to France and many of his fights, (he has never lost a service match), took place overseas. His company was in combat and Pate was literally, as he said, "fighting the war in the day-time and fighting to entertain at night."

Because he did such a good job as instructor he was discharged, upon the request of the Y, from the Army and named General Director of the American Embarkation Center of the YMCA in LeMans, France. He stayed in the program for about 18 months before returning to the states.

Later, his war record was extended when he received a call from Washington, asking him to join the Chaplain Corps, starting off with the rank of a captain. Before the war was over, he had attained the rank of a Major, was General Officer of the 37th General Hospital in Brooklyn, England, and East Base countries. When the war ended Pate was among the American troops that marched through the Arch de Triumph in Paris, France, in celebration of the victory.

He has pulled teeth, seen men die, and been shot at by snipers. And even though he was under fire a lot of times, he preached every Sunday morning.

Pate was discharged from the Army in 1940 and continued in the Active Reserve until '54. He was offered the rank of Brigadier General if he went back into the Army. But Pate declined; finally deciding that service in two wars was enough for his country.

In January 1946, C.O. Pate bought the interest of his partner R.R. McCormick in Pate and McCormick Funeral Home. Thus establishing C.O. Pate Funeral Home - Senatobia.

C. O. Pate Buys Interest In Local Funeral Concern

Mr. C. O. Pate has bought the interest of his partner R. R. McCormick, in Pate and McCormick Funeral Home in Senatobia and will operate the business as the C. O. Pate Funeral Home.

Mr. Pate and Mr. McCormick went in business in 1928 and the business has been operating as a partnership since that time. Mr. Pate also owns the C. O. Pate Funeral Home in Coldwater and is interested in the Hernando Funeral Home.

A few weeks ago Mr. Pate bought the Garrott home in the southern part of Senatobia on Panola Street and plans at some future time to build a modern funeral home on that site.

In 1945, C.O. Pate bought Henry and Alice Garrett's home at the corner of Church Street and Hwy 51 from their daughters. Mr. Pate converted the house into a modern funeral home. Serving as our current location, the original Garrett home has gone through many changes over the years.

The chapel and lobby of the new funeral home in 1945.

These photos were taken after the house got a new look with brick added. The Coldwater location was closed sometime in the late 1950s and was moved from Coldwater. That house was then added to accommodate a larger chapel.

C.O. Pate Funeral Home operated an ambulance service for Tate County and had a Florist in the Front Street Location for many years.

C.O. Pate had many talents. He was known to be able to preach, sing and direct your funeral and married many couples at his home. Mr. Pate was also a Baptist Minister and served at several churches in the county including Flag Lake Baptist, Strayhorn Baptist and Ebenezer Baptist churches.

C.O. Pate continued to work at the funeral home until his death in January 1981.

After his death, Harry Jones, Sr., C.O. Pate's son-in-law became the President of the funeral home.

Harry Jones was the son of Charles and Bell Jones. He graduated from Northwest Mississippi Junior College/Tate County Agricultural High School. Harry continued his education at the The Gupton-Jones School of Embalming in Nashville, Tennessee where he graduated in 1939. Harry came to work at the Pate-McCormick Funeral Home where he met Mr. Pate's daughter, Martha Elizabeth Pate.

Harry and Martha began dating and were married in March 1940.

Harry volunteered into the United States Naval Reserve in 1942. He entered as a Pharmacist's Mate 3rd Class and was sent immediately to the U.S. Naval Hospital in Pensacola, Florida. After training in Pensacola, Harry was transferred to the U.S. Naval Hospital in Key West, Florida. He finished his Naval Career in 1944 as a Pharmacist's Mate 2nd Class.

Harry Jones, Sr. continued to work until his death in 1999.

Harry E. Jones, Sr., 82, passed away March 8, 1999 at Baptist Memorial Hospital Desoto. He was President of C.O. Pate Funeral Home and Hernando Funeral Home. He was a member of First Baptist Church in Senatobia where he served as a deacon for over 50 years. He was a member of the Senatobia Rotary Club and he was a veteran of WWII serving in the United State Navy. He is Survived by his wife, Martha Pate Jones of Senatobia, MS; a son, Harry Jones, Jr. of Senatobia, MS; a daughter, Jean Jones Graham of Independence, MS; four grandchildren and three great grandchildren

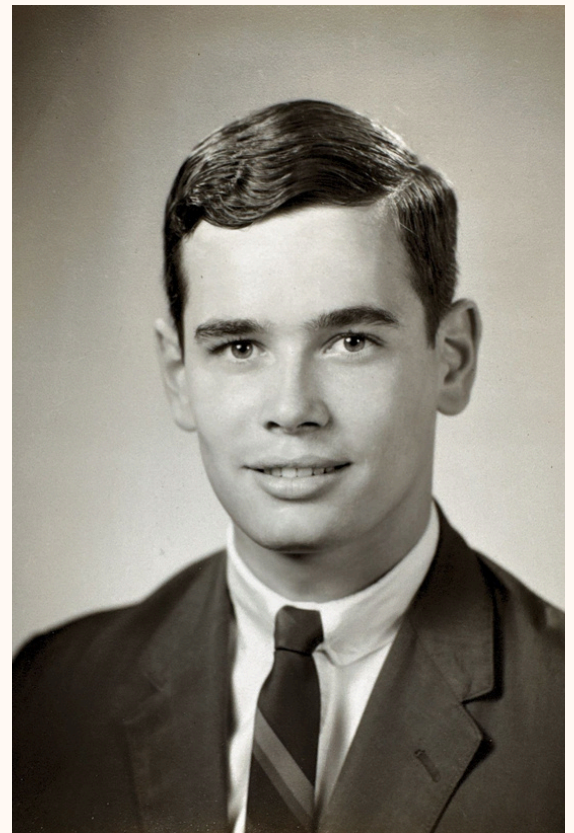

After his death, Martha Pate Jones became the sole owner and President of the funeral home.

Harry and Martha had two children, Jean Elizabeth and Harry Eugene Jones, Jr.

Jean completed her college degree and became a teacher.

Harry, Jr. decided to join the family business and completed his business degree at Mississippi College. After senior college, Harry continued his education at the Dallas Institute of Mortuary Science and graduated with a degree in Mortuary Science and Funeral Directing. He came back home to work at the family funeral home.

Harry Junior, as he was most often called, met a young woman named Susan McGee shortly after returning home from Dallas. The two were married in January 1972.

Service is a tradition for Pate-Jones family

The Pate-Jones Funeral Home has been a part of the Tate County business community for 81 years.

It is a four-generation business which began with C.O. Pate, his son-in-law, Harry Jones, and continues today with his grandson and current owner Harry Jones Jr. and his great grandson, Brian Jones.

C. O. Pate was a minister who became interested in the funeral business and saw a need for it in the Tate County area, so in 1928 he and his silent partner, Raymond McCormick opened up the Pate-McCormick Funeral Parlor in downtown Senatobia.

In 1930, Pate bought McCormick's share of the business and renamed it, the C.O. Pate Funeral Parlor which was located on the corner of E. Gilmore and Heard Street.

During WWII, Pate served as a chaplain. After the war, in 1946, he built the funeral home in its current location on Highway 51.

According to Brian Jones, after C.O. Pate's death in 1981, his son-in-law Harry Jones took over the family business, and changed the name to Pate-Jones Funeral Home. In 1999, the business passed to Harry Jones Jr.

"I just enjoy serving the community, you know, and helping people," said Harry Jones, Jr.

He went on to explain how being fair and honest with the public plays a major role in the success of his business.

"I rely heavily on my family tradition, I think that's important," he said.

Harry Jones, Jr. became the owner and President of the funeral home after his mother, Martha's death in 2003. He changed the name from C.O. Pate Funeral Home to Pate-Jones Funeral Home to incorporate the Jones family name in the business.

Harry and Susan had two children, Brian Pate and Mary Anne.

Brian Pate Jones is a graduate of Magnolia Heights in Senatobia. He attended Mississippi College and graduated with a Bachelor of Business Administration degree.

After graduating Mississippi College, Brian decided to join the family business and went on to complete his Associate of Applied Sciences in Mortuary Science from Northwest Mississippi Community College. Brian began his career in the family funeral business in 1993.

Brian married the former Cindy Buckley in 1997. They have one daughter, Olivia.

Mary Anne Jones Sinquefield graduated from Magnolia Heights in 1996. She attended Northwest Mississippi Community College then transferred to Baptist College of Health Sciences where she graduated with a Bachelor of Health Sciences in Radiological Studies. After graduating college, Mary Anne worked for Baptist Hospital as a Radiation Therapist.

She joined the family funeral home business in 2009 and received her Funeral Director License in 2012. Mary Anne is the great granddaughter of C.O. Pate, the founder of our funeral home. She is married to Chad Sinquefield. Chad works at Senatobia High School where he has been a teacher, coach and Athletic Director. Mary Anne and Chad have two children, Luke and Logan.

In 2016, Harry Jones, Jr. retired. His children, Brian and Mary Anne became the owners of the funeral home.

Brian's daughter, Olivia joined the family business in 2019 and his wife, Cindy started working in 2021.
