I Found the Rose

I have faced many valleys While knowing the Lord And I would not trade one of them For the joys of this whole world For he's been such a friend to me My pain he always knows And while down in the valley I found the rose. Many people they have suffered In this life here below And reasons for such heartaches We don't always know. But I just can't help from thinking That when Stephen was stoned In his darkest valley He was not left alone. He found it blooming Where heartaches abundantly reign Who would have dreamed So much joy in so much pain It's good on the mountains But they come and they go But down in the valley THERE IS AI WAYS A ROSE
