

*In a beautiful blue lagoon on a clear day, a fine sailing-ship spreads its brilliant white canvas in a fresh morning breeze and sails out to the open sea. We watch her glide away magnificently through the deep blue and gradually see her grow smaller and smaller as she nears the horizon. Finally, where the sea and sky meet, she slips silently from sight; and someone near me says,
"There she is gone!"*

Gone where? Gone from sight - that is all. She is still as large in mast, hull and sail, still just as able to bear her load. And we can be sure that, just as we say, "There, she is gone!" Others will say, "There, she comes!"
