

During the last few months of his life Richard and his dad had grown close. He taught his dad to laugh and see the good things in life. I think he dreamed of being as good a dad as his brother Jason. He thought Jason was the best dad and wondered if he would have his patience given the chance.

His life was enriched by Scarlett's mom; she taught him how to explore life, travel and he tried to live a godly life when they were together. When Scarlett, his little girl was born, she was everything to him.

His big heart was always open to family and friends; he would do anything for anybody. He was obsessed about the things he enjoyed, Wide Spread Panic Music, pictures taken on trips, his bonsai trees.

He wouldn't want us to be sad, but celebrate the good times we had with him.
