

Just One More Day

Just one more day to say things left unsaid,
Not the chaos and struggles of yesterday, but the great life ahead.

For we all know our Father makes no mistakes,
It may be me or you this is surely one road we all must take.

Living in my flesh and not wanting to let go,
Help me Lord to learn not on my own understanding, but yours.

There's nothing that could have prepared us for this day,
That's why we should express our love day by day.

For when our name is called we all must answer,
My big brother we know you had to leave and never return,

We thank you for leaving us with

Ashley, Jada Marie, Kamara, Zack and Mason, too,

And when we see them, we will always think of you.

I will forever keep you in my heart, and our memories from the start.

As we move forward past this day

The thought still remains, "Just One More Day".

We love you with our hearts, and never wanted this day to come,

And that's even the younger ones.

If only I had Just One More Day, to experience the life of my big brother,

Realizing time is precious and waits for no one.

Desperately wanting to hear that laugh again,

Just One More Day, one more hug or one more smile

Would really never be enough.

Living in my flesh, help me Lord to lean not on my understanding, but on yours

Still hearing you say "hold it in the road"

My brother and sister as you walk away.

Dear Lord hold Randy in your arms,

As you keep us all safe and away from harm,

Time is ticking and ticking fast, knowing nothing is here to last.

Just One More Day to get this life right and to be pleasing in your sight.

If I only had Just One More Day.
