That's OK!

*You may not understand what's going on
You may not know why God called me home
 But He did, and that's OK.
You may have sleepless nights
You may think, 'This just ain't right'
 You're confused, and that's OK.
Let me explain ... I have no more worries
There's no more stress, I'm alright with God
So now I'll rest, Our time on Earth is limited
 This you already knew
But God has called me home now
This is something we all must do
So carry on, but never forget me
 It'll get better day by day
But I'm up here with God and our loved ones
 And my oh my THAT'S OK!*

Our Final Words to Our Mother

What is love? Love is an action. God sent Jesus to die for our sins so that we may have life. Mom, I love you. I love you for believing in me when no one else did. I've watched and learned from the life you lived, so thank you, mom, for being the wonderful mother you were. I will treasure every moment in my heart forever.

*Love you Mom
"Durrell"*

I wish I could say this instead of writing it on paper. It's never good-bye, it's I'll see you later. You weren't just my mother, but also my best friend. You did your job and raised a man ... I remember when I was a teen. I started calling you my black queen. Mama, I love you so much, words can't describe our bond. There is nobody who could ever compare to you. No more stressing, no more pain and no more worrying baby, so walk through the gate to heaven with your beautiful smile and say to God, "Father I'm home". I love you my black queen. 'Til we meet again, rest easy baby. We all know you need it.

"Tone"

Mom I love you so much, but I have to accept that God loves you more. So I smile because I know you are well taken care of. There is no more pain and no more suffering. You will be missed dearly, but forever I will love you and I will see you soon ... So we can walk around heaven together.

*I love you Mom!!
T.J.*

Final Words to My Wife

To my "Black Pearl"

I cherish the time that the Lord has allowed us to have together. I will always keep you deep in my mind, heart and soul. Always know that I love you now and forever more. We will be back together one day to reflect on all of our loving memories.

Love, your devoted husband, "Samuel"
