Obituary

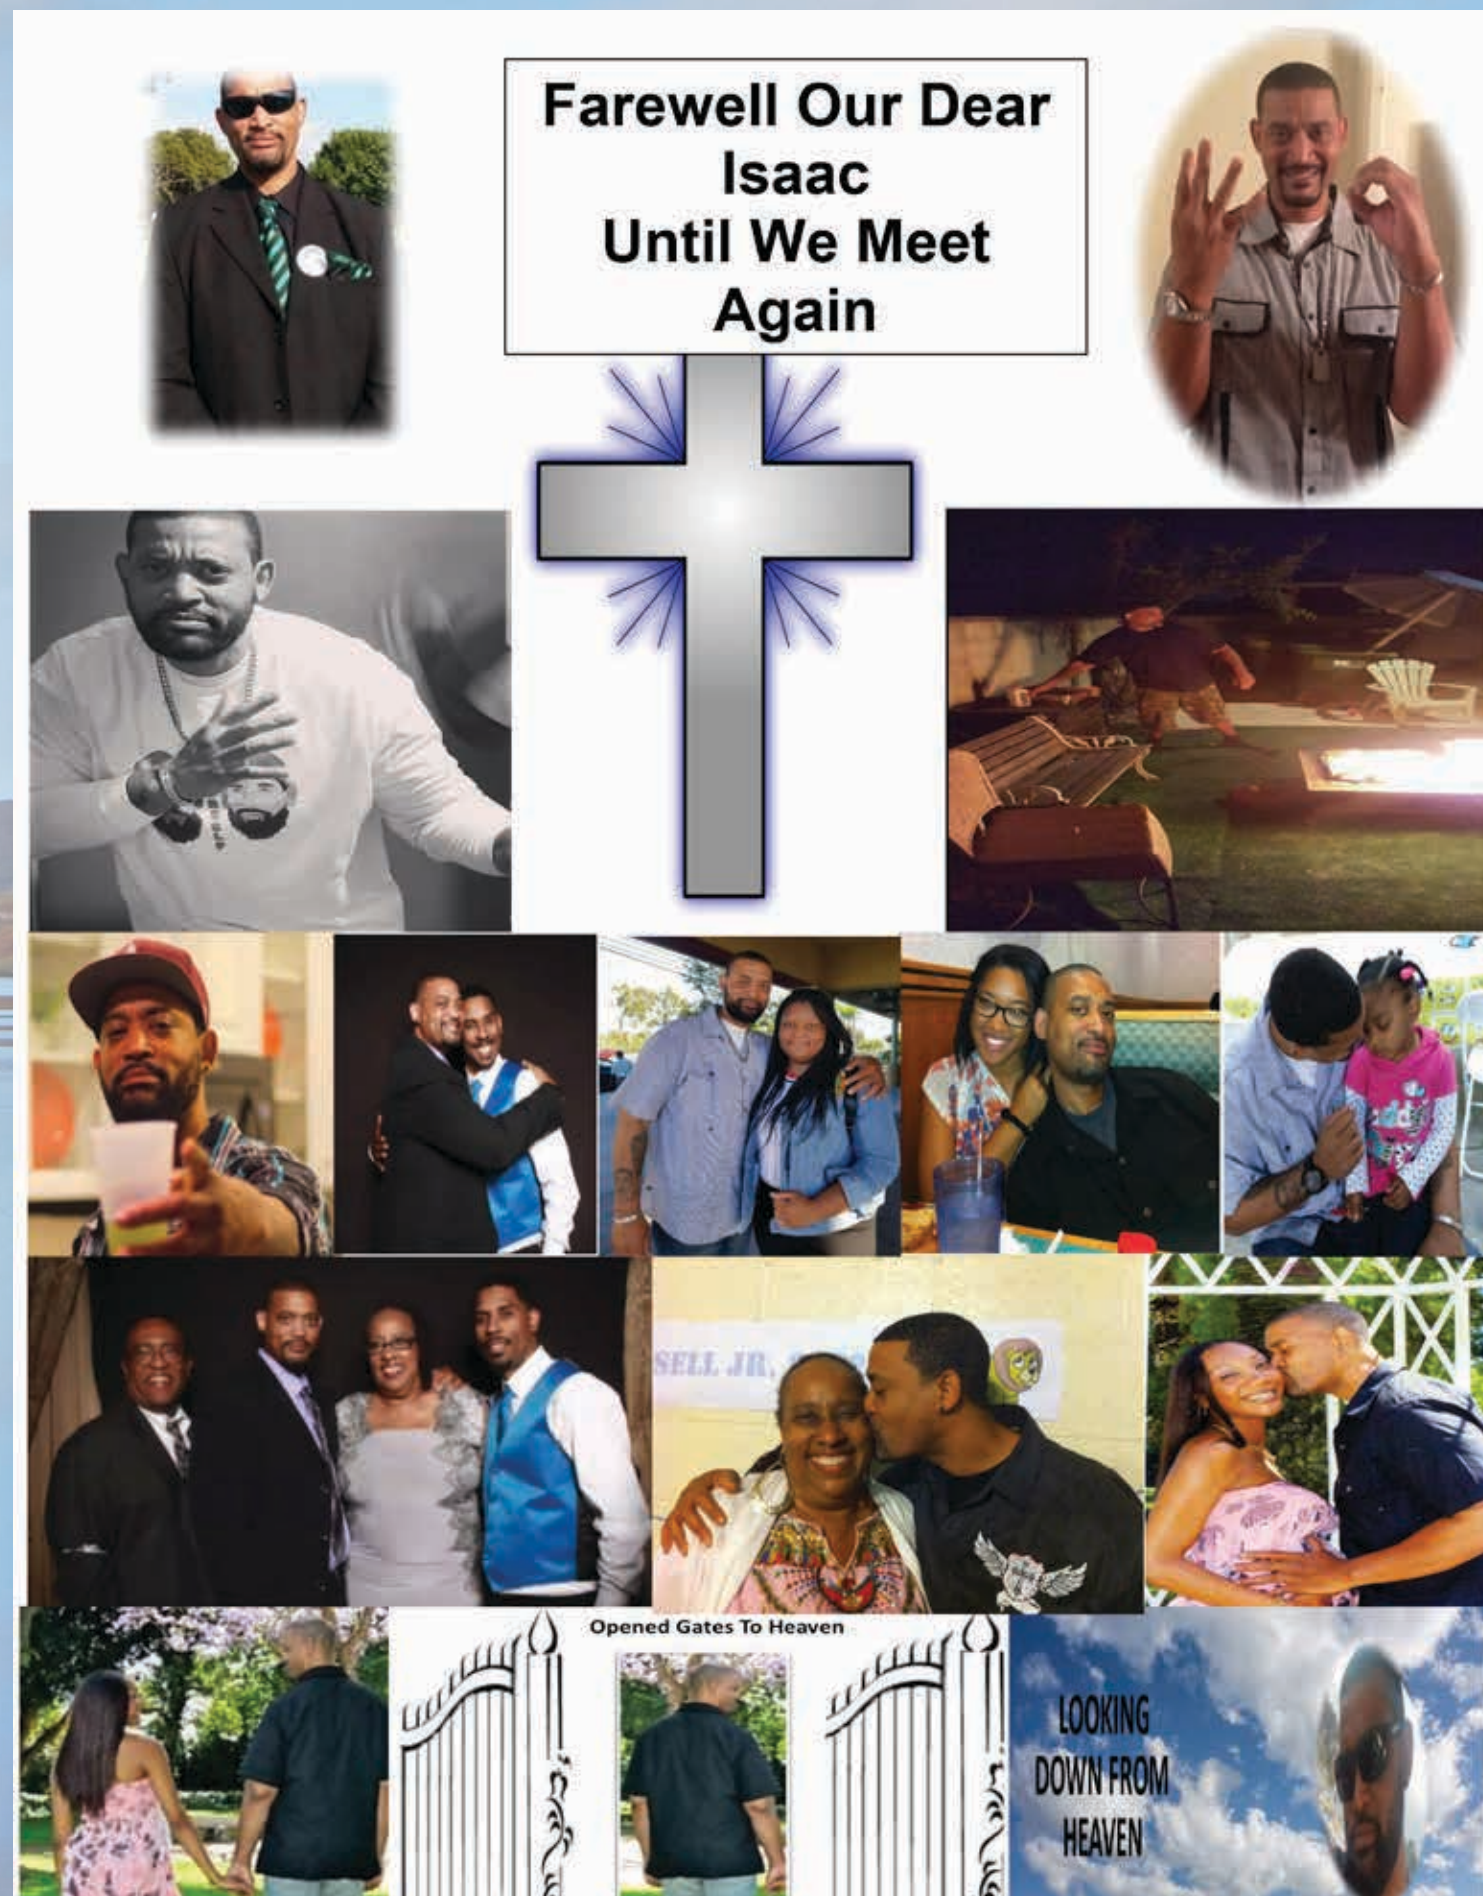

Isaac-Charles Smith was born on April 26, 1973, to the union of Nellie Francine Tillman and Michael Ray Smith, Sr. Isaac-Charles attended Patsy Yoganwalt Preschool and Our Lady of Victory Elementary School, for one year. Subsequently he and his brother, Michael, convinced me to let them go to public school, so they went to Lemberg School in Long Beach. The next year they ran back to Our Lady of Victory, completed their studies, and graduated. Isaac-Charles attended St. Anthony High School and later graduated from Jordan High in Long Beach. Subsequent to graduating from high school, Isaac-Charles pursued his work journey as an air conditioner installer, accountant, chef, R&B singer, rapper, dancer, and an actor in a TV show. His work journey also led him to the United States Postal Service. While at the postal service, he served as a Union Representative (shop Steward) for Southwest Coastal Area Local, APWU.

Isaac-Charles loved fishing, working, and making people happy. He could brighten up every room he walked in. He never engaged in conflict. His saying was, "I am a lover not a fighter." I can vividly remember once asking Isaac-Charles why he loved fishing so much. His response was, "Mom, I'm at peace with me thoughts." Family meant a lot to him, and everyone wanted him at their parties. Isaac-Charles was the life of the party. He brought laughter and happiness to everyone, including strangers. Isaac-Charles never held a grudge or evil thought towards anyone; he believed that everyone deserved a second chance.

Isaac-Charles met and fell in love with India McGill, the love of his life. Isaac-Charles loved being a family man. His most prized moment, besides falling in love with India, was the birth of his three daughters, Symphoni, Aiyana, and Kennedy Smith. Fatherhood came easy to him; it was a joy to watch him do his daughters' hair, and the hairdos were perfect.

Isaac-Charles loved the Lord. He was a member of Our Lady of Victory Church, where he took his Alter Boy duties very seriously. Isaac-Charles role as a brother to Michael and David was very important to him. Isaac-Charles had a job at Domino's Pizza, and the night Michael was going away to college, he gave $100.00 of his paycheck to Michael, so his brother would not leave without money in his pockets. He was also a big brother to David, whom he shared food cook-offs with when they got older.

Isaac-Charles was loved by many and leaves to mourn: his fiancé, the love of his life, India McGill; his three beautiful daughters, Symphoni, Aiyana, and Kennedy Smith; mother, Nellie Tillman; his father, Michael Smith, Sr.; brothers, Michael Jr., David Cowings, Jr. (Irma), and Lejaun Smith; sisters, Tracy, Ebony, and Jada; aunts, Vendetta Smith, Linda Faulkner, Faye Shelby (Carlton), and Karen Morales (Andy); uncles, Darryl Tillman (Jay) and George Mitchell; nieces, Ajaye Cowings and Payton Smith; nephews, David Cowings III and Dominic Cowings; cousins more like sisters and brothers, Tanisha Elzie (Aaron), Phillip, Jermaine (Kamisha), Rejon, Christian (Christina) Smith, Loren Artis, Pleasure, Treasure Mitchell, Maurice McCullough, Sabrina and Larry House (Gabrielle), Jakaree Leveaux, Andrew and Aaron Morales, Keara White; and countless other family members and friends.
