Worry no more, there's no need to ponder I've taken my rest, I no longer have to sing about "way over yonder."

I ran my race I held on for the time that I could. Love and hug on each other the same way that I would.

It's okay to cry for me, but grin "sweetie"
because you know I lived.
And when the pain of missing me becomes to much pray and look to the hills.

My time on earth may have not seemed long.
I answered the call because it was my time to go home.

You can miss me now....but meet me later.
I'm resting "you child" enjoying something Greater.

Love, Taye
