We Release You

It's about that time. Goodbyes are inevitable, yet I find myself crying, lost in reflection over the passing of time. My lips dry out as I try to mouth the words (I Love You).

You were our watchful sentinel, our silent cheerleader, our prayer for guidance.

Sometimes the world could be so cold and the best you could afford was a warm smile.

Colorful words and wet pillow cases because you weren't there.

If I could see you now, I want most for you to hear us say, (Thank You Mom). As children we could have known, that you lived in dark nights so that we'd have brighter days.

What's understood need not explain, but with love, we release you. Be Free.

Obituary

Sandra R. Wells was born on March 16, 1969, in Cincinnati, Ohio, to Debra Bell and Robert Wells, Sr.

Early on, she accepted Christ at New Friendship Baptist Church, under Rev. H.L. Harvey, Jr. She attended Hughes High School. Sandra was a trying daughter, mother, sister and friend. Despite her struggles in life, she had a huge heart. If she loved you, she truly loved you. “Baby Doll” and Aunt Nita were her favs. You didn’t see her without the two.

She was preceded in death by her parents and siblings Robert Wells, Jr. and Cassandra Denise Wells-Howell.

Sandra leaves to cherish: her children, Larry Wells, Donna Wells and Diamond Wells; her siblings, PaSqual, Christopher, Michael, Sireenia, Teaonia, Tiera, Teon, Iesha and Donny; her grandchildren, Weston and Wesley and unborn baby girl; and a host of relatives and friends.

Message from Her Children

*I’m thankful that you brought me into the world.
You’ll always remain in my heart. — Larry*

I will always remember my loving Mother, through the good and bad. You’ll always be in my heart. — Diamond

I’m glad I got to know you. I’m glad I allowed myself to let you know me. I’m sorry we didn’t get more time, but I’ll cherish the times we did share. I’m a fierce protector like you. And I’ll carry on that thought as the Queen you knew me to be. — Donna

A voice we loved is still.
